PREFACE.

THE present work contains all the English Statutes passed before 1726 which can possibly be held to be in force within the Presidency-towns and Rangoon. It also contains such of the Statutes[b] relating to India, passed between that year and 1881, as still remain unrepealed. The first edition of the older Statutes contained in the present work was published in 1874. Since then some of the difficulties mentioned in the preface to that edition have been removed by the decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council that the English laws of maintenance and champerty are not of force as specific laws in India,[a] and by the action of the Indian Legislature in expressly repealing the Lord's Da[illegible] the Statutes relating to Distresses and Replevin.[c] [illegible] however, is room for doubt as to which of the Statu[illegible] before 1726 are in force in the Presidency-towns, [illegible] whether some modern repealing and amending Statu[illegible] British India. I see no practical way of laying [illegible] save passing an Act to declare that certain of th[illegible] (specifying them in a schedule) shall be deemed to [illegible] those towns; that all other Statutes passed before t[illegible] be repealed, so far as they affect British India [illegible] Statute passed before 1861 shall be deemed to exte[illegible] of India merely because it repeals, amends or mo[illegible] applying to any part of this country.

The Bill for this purpose might run as follows:—

A Bill to declare the Statutes in force in the Presidency Towns.

Repeal of other Statutes passed before 1727.

2. All other Statutes passed before the said year 1727 are hereby repealed so far as they affect British India.

SCHEDULE.

(See Section 1.)

[To be settled in communication with the Presidency High Courts.]

A Bill resembling the above draft was prepared by me in 1874, introduced into the Legislative Council by Sir A. Hobhouse, and recommended for passing by the Select Committee to which it was referred. Its further progress was, however, stopped at the desire of the then Secretary of State for India.

The present work concludes the undertaking commenced in 1868, namely, to expurgate the obsolete enactments on the Indian Statute-book and to separate from the laws applicable to the whole country the local laws of British India, and arrange those laws according to their local application. For the former purpose, the Legislative Department of the Government of India, with the assistance of Mr. F. Cockerell and of Mr. (now Sir Charles) Hobhouse, prepared, and the Council of the Governor General passed, six repealing enactments (VIII of 1868, XIV of 1870, XXIX of 1871, XII of 1873, XVI of 1874 and XII of 1876), which swept away a vast mass of the matter that had become obsolete during the last eighty-eight years. For the latter purpose, I, with the assistance of Mr. Heysham, the zealous and efficient Registrar in the Legislative Department, prepared and passed through the press the present two volumes of the Statutes relating to India, three volumes of the general Acts, that is, unrepealed Acts of the Governor General in Council extending or extendible to the whole of British India, passed between November 1834 and June 1876, and eleven volumes of the unrepealed local Regulations and Acts relating respectively to the Presidencies of Madras

Bombay, the Lower Provinces, the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, Oudh, the Central Provinces, British Burma, Coorg and, lastly, Ajmer and Merwára. It seems unnecessary to have special volumes for the Chief Commissionerships of Assam and the Andaman and Nicobar Islands: for the local laws relating to Assam are almost all to be found in the Lower Provinces Code, and those relating to the Andaman and Nicobar Islands are too few[a] in number to render it necessary to collect them.

To use the words of one of my distinguished predecessors,[b] the advantages of such an operation are "so great and obvious that he did not think it necessary to dwell on them." The real bulk of the law is shown to be far less than is generally supposed: people are no longer at a loss where to look for the Act or Regulation which they needed; and (as all obsolete matter is repealed and omitted) when they find the enactment which they seek, they may be sure that every part of it is operative. Besides this, money and space are saved, for, as a rule, all the written law that any official or lawyer, say, in the Panjáb, Oudh or Burma requires, is the general Acts and the slender volume of local laws in force in his own Province. To the penetralia of all these Acts, Regulations and Statutes a guide will be found in the elaborate Index which has recently been prepared and published by Mr. Jacob, of the Bengal Civil Service, who was employed for that purpose for about a year by the Legislative Department.

PREFACE

to the first edition of the Older Statutes relating to India.

THE present volume contains all the English Statutes passed before 1726 which can possibly be of practical utility within the Presidency-towns. A sequel is intended to contain such of the Statutes relating to India, passed between that year and 1874, as will remain unrepealed after the Statutes relating to Indian Government have been consolidated somewhat in the manner proposed by the late Mr. Merivale.[a]

It is well settled that, on the establishment of Mayors' Courts in Calcutta, Madras and Bombay under the charter of 13 Geo. I, the Statute-law in force in England in the year 1726 was introduced into the Presidencies so far as it was applicable to local circumstances.[b]

Under the qualification contained in the last part of this proposition, large classes of Statutes will obviously be excluded. The Statutes, for instance, dealing with the subjects of Advowsons, Bankruptcy, Bastardy, Clergy, Commons, Dilapidations, Elections, Excise, Forests, Police, Poor-relief, Sewers, Tithes and the qualification of Sheriffs were clearly framed with reference to the special conditions of England, and could never be deemed applicable to any part of India. Other Statutes, such as those relating to Coroners, Crimes, Executors, Jurors, Justices of the Peace, Lotteries, Oaths, Pleading and Riotous Assemblies,

[a] A Bill for this purpose prepared by Mr. Merivale, recast by Sir James Stephen, and twice revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and myself, has, apparently, been dropped. It consolidated 43 Statutes.

[b] See Clarke's Rules and Orders of the Supreme Court, Calcutta, 1829, preface, p. IV, Doe d. Savage v. Bancharam Tagore, Morton 72, per Chambers, J.: Musleah v. Musleah. Boulu. Rep. 240, per Colville, C. J.: Padamani Dasi v. Jagadamba Dasi, 3 Ben. L. R., O. C. J. 59: Wilkinson v. Abbas Sircar, ib. 98, 99, per Peacock, C. J.: Manikji Mehervanji v. Rahimtulla Alubhai, 1 Bomb. Appendix 1, per Sausse, C. J.: Ranee Hurrosoondaree Dossee v. Raja Kistonath Roy, cited 1 Hyde's Rep. 70. But as the Letters Patent of Charles II, in 1661, granted "that the Governor and his Council.....might have power to judge all persons..... in all causes, whether civil or criminal, according to the Laws of the Kingdom of England," it would be more correct to say that, ever since the establishment of the Mayors' Courts, the English Statutes in force in 1726 have been deemed in force in the Presidencies so far as they were applicable to local circumstances: see Freeman v. Fairlie, 1 Moo. I. A. Ca. 342: Jebb v. Lefevre, Clarke's Rules and Orders, etc., 56.

have been rendered by recent Indian legislation unnecessary and therefore inapplicable. But when we go beyond these classes of laws, and inquire, for example, whether the Statutes relating to maintenance and champerty are in force in Calcutta, we at once fall into doubt and difficulty. It is true that, in the absence of any declaration by the legislature, the Judges of the late Supreme Courts and those of the present High Courts have assumed the function of declaring what Statutes shall be deemed in force within the local limits of their ordinary original jurisdiction. But, in the first place, the Judges have made such declarations in comparatively few instances; in the second place, their decisions have not always been reported; thirdly, it may, with deference, be doubted whether their declarations are always right; and fourthly, even when they are certainly correct, the rulings of the Judges of one Supreme or High Court are not binding upon those of another.[a]

Even in cases where a Statute certainly operates in the Presidency-towns, it is not always clear whether it applies to all the inhabitants or only to Europeans. Thus, every one agrees that the Statutes of Elizabeth relating to fraudulent conveyances are in force in Calcutta, Madras and Bombay; and in Calcutta, the late Mr. Justice Norman (2 Ind. Jur. O. S. 7) held that they applied to Natives as well as to Europeans. But in Madras, Sir Adam Bittleston seemed to think, in a case reported in 6 Mad. H. C. Rep. 474, that they applied only to British subjects other than Hindús or Muhammadans.

The result is a great amount of uncertainty as to the Statute-law in force in the Presidency-towns, and this not merely in rare instances, but in matters of constant occurrence. Sir Lawrence Peel (for example) in an unreported case held that the Statutes relating to maintenance and champerty did not apply to India. Mr. Justice Phear (4 Beng. O. J. 1) and Mr. Justice Holloway (7 Madras, 143), on the contrary, hold that they do apply, at least within the Presidency-towns. Peacock, C. J. (9 Suth. Cr. R. 243), held that champerty is not illegal in the mufassal. Scotland, C. J. (1 Madras, 153), admitting that the common and Statute-law as to maintenance and champerty did not apply to Natives, thought that the "general principles" upon which it rests might be so applied. For two days, again, the High Court in Madras has lately been occupied in discussing whether or not the sixth section of the Lord's Day Act (29 Car. II, cap. 7) applies to the Presidency-towns, and whether therefore a Muhammadan debtor could or could not be legally arrested on Sunday. The decisions of the Court of First Instance and of the Appellate Bench were conflicting, and as a further appeal is (I believe) pending, the question cannot yet be regarded as settled even in Madras, much less in Calcutta or Bombay. Do the Statutes of 52 Hen. III, 13 Edw. I, cap. 37, 1 & 2 Phil. & Mar., cap. 12, 17 Car. II, cap. 7, and 11 Geo. II, cap. 19, apply to distresses in the Presidency-towns for arrears of rent exceeding Rs. 1,000*? If not, what law is applicable to such distresses? Even so ordinary a matter as protesting an inland bill for non-payment is clouded with doubt. The Statute (9 Wm. III, c. 17) legalizing this practice has never been ruled to be in force in India; and, as it is in terms applicable only to bills drawn on or dated at places "in the kingdom of England, dominion of Wales or town of Berwick upon Tweed," it is quite possible that it may be held not to operate in this country.

This uncertainty is not confined to the Presidency-towns, for, under the Burma Courts Act (VII of 1872), the Recorder of Rangoon determines cases in which the parties are not Hindús, Muhammadans nor Buddhists in accordance with "the law administered by the High Court at Fort William in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction;" and of this law, the English Statutes (whatever they may be) in force in Calcutta form an important element.

* Distresses for arrears not exceeding Rs. 1,000 are provided for by the Small Cause Courts Acts, VII of 1847, IX of 1850, s. 89, and XXVI of 1864, s. 4. [Now see Act I of 1877.]

Moreover, the Statutes in force in the Presidency-towns (except of course where they have been modified by Indian legislation) seem to operate as a kind of personal law in the case of European vendors, purchasers, mortgagors, mortgagees, lessors or lessees of land anywhere in India outside the local limits. For Peel, C. J., in Storm v. Homfray, 1 Tayl. & Bell 333-4, ruled that "British subjects litigating in this Court [the late Supreme Court at Fort William] as to the title to immoveable property, though situate in the mufassal, must have their rights as to the subject-matter determined by the law of England, so far as it has been introduced here."

The doubts and difficulties above referred to have been brought very vividly before me while preparing for Government the edition of the Statutes in force in India, of which the first instalment is contained in the present volume; and it seems to me that this is clearly a case in which the Legislature, in consultation with the Judges of the High Courts, might usefully declare that certain of the Statutes (specifying them) passed before 1726 shall be deemed to be in force in the Presidency-towns, and that all other Statutes passed before that year shall be repealed so far as they affect British India. The necessary legislation might be effected either by a separate Bill, or by adding a section and schedule to the Laws Local Extent Bill[a] now before the Council. This would, I think, be more convenient than giving (as was done in the case of N. S. Wales by 9 Geo. IV, c. 83, s. 24) power to the Executive, with the advice of the Legislature, to declare whether any particular Statute extends to this country. Whichever of these suggestions is adopted, the collection contained in the present volume will probably be of use. It consists, as will be seen, of all the Statutes (except five Acts of no practical importance in this country) passed before 1726, which can possibly be deemed in force in the Presidency-towns; and references to all the reported decisions of the Judges as to whether a Statute is or is not in force in India will be found in notes[a] at the proper places or in the Table at p. xiii. Where the Revised Edition of the Statutes, London, 1870, differs with respect to years, statutes and chapters from Ruffhead's, Pickering's and other editions, the Revised Edition has been followed. Where a Statute is in Anglonorman or Latin, nothing but the translation in the Revised Edition has been given.

It will be seen that, of the 732 Statutes passed before 1726 and still in force in England, 75 appear to me to be (some certainly, others probably, the rest possibly) in force in the Presidency-towns and Rangoon.

If three Acts were passed by the Legislative Council, one dealing with maintenance and champerty, another abolishing the Sheriff or consolidating the law concerning that functionary, and a third extending the present law as to distresses for arrears not exceeding Rs. 1,000 to arrears exceeding that sum, the number of these Statutes might be reduced to 53.

Regarding the Statutes passed subsequently to 1726, there is less difficulty. Some have been expressly applied to India by Acts of the Indian Legislature.[b] As to the others, the rule is that none but the unrepealed Statutes expressly, or by necessary implication, extending to India are in force in any part of this country, see Edwards v. Ronald, 1 Knapp P. C. C. 259: Bank of Hindústán v. Premchand Ráichand, 5 Bombay O. C. J. 91. The authority on which the Indian Courts have refused to apply any of the other Statutes passed since the granting of the charter of George I is to be found in Calvin's case, 7 Rep. 1.[c] I know of no Statutes to which the doctrine, that usage is sufficient to extend an Act of Parliament to a colony (25 Geo. II, c. 6, s. 10, Forsyth's Cases and Opinions, p. 2), can be considered to apply in India.

Doubts may be raised as to how far some of the modern repealing and amending Statutes are in force in this country. Most of the Statutes in force in England in the year 1726 have been repealed by Statutes which in very few instances expressly apply to India. Do the repealing Acts operate here? Parliament (see 9 Geo. IV, c. 74, s. 125) and the Supreme Indian Legislature have more than once acted as if this question should be answered in the negative. On the other hand, the last Statute-law Revision Act (36 & 37 Vic., c. 91) declares that it "shall not extend to repeal any enactment so far as the same may be in force in any part of Her Majesty's Dominions out of the United Kingdom, except where otherwise expressed in the said schedule." This seems to shew that, in the opinion of Parliament, that Act would, in the absence of the declaration just quoted, have operated in British India. Does a modern Statute amending an ancient Statute in force in India extend to this country by necessary implication? For instance, the Habeas Corpus Act (31 Car. II, c. 2) applies to the Presidency-towns; but does the amending Act, 56 Geo. III, c. 100, apply also? In Reg. v. Vaughan, 5 Beng. 429, Phear, J., asserted that it did not; but Mr. Anstey, in Ameer Khan's case (6 Beng. 418), contended that it did; the point was not decided. Dwarris, 527, says that "Acts of Parliament altering other Acts in force in the Colonies are considered as themselves applying there." But he cites no authority for this proposition. It is merely the opinion of a respectable text-writer; and the Supreme Indian Legislature has at least in one instance (the enactment of so much of 19 & 20 Vic., c. 97, as modified the requirements of the Statute of Frauds as to the consideration for a guarantee) acted as if the opposite view were correct.

The decisions on this branch of the subject are almost all negative, i. e., that such and such a Statute does not extend to this country. For convenience of reference they are collected in Table B.

A COLLECTION

STATUTES IN FORCE IN INDIA.

13 EDWARD I. A. D. 1285.

Chap. I. Several sorts of gifts of lands upon condition.

First, concerning lands that many times are given upon condition, that is to wit, where any giveth his land to any man and his wife, and to the heirs begotten of the bodies of the same man and his wife, with such condition expressed that if the same man and his wife die without [heirs[1]] of their bodies between them begotten, the land so given shall revert to the giver or his heir: In case also where one giveth lands in free marriage, which gift hath a condition annexed, though it be not expressed in the deed of gift, which is this, that if the husband and wife die without heir of their bodies begotten, the land so given shall revert to the giver or his heir: In case also where one giveth land to another, and the heirs of his body issuing; it seemed very hard, and yet seemeth to the givers and their heirs, that their will being expressed in the gift, was not heretofore, nor yet is observed: [2] In all the cases aforesaid, after issue begotten and born between them, to whom the lands were given under such condition, heretofore such feoffees had power to aliene the land so given, and to disherit their issue of the land, contrary to the minds of the givers, and contrary to the form expressed in the gift: And further, when the issue of such feoffee is failing, the land so given ought to return to the giver, or his heir, by form of the gift expressed in the deed, though the issue, if any were, had died: Yet by the deed and feoffment of them, to whom land was so given upon condition, the donors have heretofore been barred of their reversion, which was directly repugnant to the form of the gift: Wherefore our lord the King, perceiving how necessary and expedient it should be to provide remedy

In such gifts the donor's will shall be observed.

[1] heir [2] for in the aforesaid cases, hath ordained, that the will of the giver, according to the form in the deed of gift manifestly expressed, shall be from henceforth observed; so that they to whom the land was given under such condition, shall have no power to aliene the land so given, but that it shall remain unto the issue of them to whom it was given after their death, or [shall revert] unto the giver or his heirs, if issue fail. [whereas[1]] there is no issue at all, or if any issue be, [and fail by death, or heir of the body of such issue failing.[2]] Neither shall the second husband of any such woman, from henceforth, have any thing in the land so given upon condition, after the death of his wife, by the law of England, nor the issue of the second husband and wife shall succeed in the inheritance, but immediately after the death of the husband and wife, to whom the land was so given, it shall [come to their issue, or return unto[3]] the giver, or his heir, as before is said. And for as much as in a new case new remedy must be provided, this manner of writ shall be granted to the party that will purchase it: [Precipe A. quod juste, &c. reddat E. manerium de F. cum suis pertinentiis, quod C. dedit tali viro & tali mulieri, & hæredibus de ipsis viro & muliere exeuntibus.[4]] or thus: [Quod C. dedit tali viro in liberum maritagium cum tali muliere, & quod post mortem prædictorum viri & mulieris, prædicto B. filio eorundem viri & mulieris descendere debeat per formam donationis prædictæ, ut dicit, &c. Vel, Quod C. dedit tali & hæredibus de corpore suo exeuntibus, & quod post mortem illius talis, prædicto B. filio prædicti talis descendere debeat per formam, &c.[5]] The writ whereby the giver shall recover, when issue faileth, is common enough in the Chancery. And it is to wit that this statute shall hold place touching alienation of land contrary to the form of the gift hereafter to be made, and shall not extend to gifts made before. And if a fine be levied hereafter upon such lands, it shall be void in the law; neither shall the heirs, or such as the reversion belongeth unto, though they be of full age, within England, and out of prison, need to make their claim.[6] and when it is come unto judgement, the defendant shall choose either to take his part in a place certain, by the sheriff, and by the view, oath, and assignment of his neighbours, [sworn and tried[1]] for the same intent, or else he shall grant to take nothing from henceforth in the same wood, turf-land, and such other, but as his partners will take; and if he do choose to take his part in a place certain, the part wasted shall be assigned for his part, [as it was[2]] before he committed the waste. Chap. I.

Writs of formedon in descender.

A fine shall not bar the heir in tail.

Forasmuch as purchasers of lands and tenements of the fees of great men and [other lords,[5]] have many times heretofore entered into their fees, to the prejudice of the lords, [to whom[6]] the freeholders of such great men [[7]] have sold their lands and tenements to be holden in fee [[8]] of their feoffors, and not of the chief lords of the fees, whereby the same chief lords have many times lost their escheats, marriages, and wardships of lands and tenements belonging to their fees; which thing seemed very hard and extream unto those [lords and other great men,[9]] and moreover in this case manifest disheritance: Our lord the King, in his Parliament at Westminster after Easter, the eighteenth year of his reign, that is to wit, in the quinzime of Saint John Baptist, at the instance of the great men of the realm, granted, provided, and ordained, that from henceforth it shall be lawful to every freeman to sell at his own pleasure his lands and tenements, or part of them; so that the feoffee shall hold the same lands or tenements of the [chief lord of the same fee, by such service[10]] and customs as his feoffor held before.

Freeholders may sell their lands; so that the feoffee do hold of the chief lord.

Chap. II.

And if he sell any part of such lands or tenements to any, the feoffee shall immediately hold it of the chief lord, and shall be forthwith charged with the services, for so much as pertaineth, or ought to pertain to the said chief lord for the same parcel, according to the quantity of the land or tenement [so] sold: And so in this case the same part of the service [shall remain to the lord, to be taken by the hands of the feoffee, for the which he ought [11]] to

Chap. I. Confirmation of liberties.

First, we have granted to God, and by this our present charter have confirmed, for us and our heirs for ever, that the church of England shall be free, and shall have all her whole rights and liberties inviolable. We have granted also, and given to all the freemen of our realm, for us and our heirs for ever, these liberties under-written, to have and to hold to them and their heirs, of us and our heirs for ever.

Chap. XXIX. Imprisonment, &c., contrary to law. Administration of justice.

No freeman shall be taken or imprisoned, or be disseised of his freehold, or liberties, or free customs, or be outlawed, or exiled, or any otherwise destroyed; nor will we not pass upon him, nor [condemn him[1]] but by lawful judgment of his peers, or by the law of the land. We will sell to no man, we will not, deny or defer to any man either justice or right.[2]

5 EDWARD III. A. D. 1331.

Chap. IX. No unlawful attachment, &c.

Item, it is enacted, that no man from henceforth shall be attached by any accusation, nor forejudged of life or limb, nor his lands, tenements, goods, nor chattels, seised into the King's hands, against the form of the Great Charter, and the law of the land.

25 EDWARD III. A. D. 1350-1 & 1351-2.

Statute the First.

Our lord the King, at his Parliament holden at Westminster, at the utas of the Purification of our Lady, the year of his reign of England the five and twentieth and of France the twelfth, considering the great mischiefs and damages which have happened to the people of his realm of England, as well

[2] See Re Amir Khán, 6 Beng. 408, where the Advocate General admitted that, within the local jurisdiction, Magna Carta would apply to British subjects. It was confirmed by another Stat. of 25 Edw. I, called Confirmatio cartarum, which contains the following clause:—'And we will, that if any judgment be given from henceforth contrary to the points of the charters aforesaid by the justices, or by any other our ministers, that hold plea before them against the points of the charters, it shall be undone and holden for nought.'

because that the statutes ordained before this time have not been holden and kept as they ought to be, as because of the mortal pestilence that late reigned, and willing to provide for the quietness and common profit of his said people convenient remedy; therefore by the assent of the prelates, earls, barons, and other great men, and all the commons of his said realm summoned to the Parliament, hath ordained and established the things underwritten, videlicet: Because that some people be in doubt if the children born in the parts beyond the sea, out of the ligeance of England, should be able to demand any inheritance within the same ligeance, or not, whereof a petition was put in the Parliament late holden at Westminster, the seventeenth year of the reign of our lord the King that now is, and was not at the same time wholly assented; our lord the King, willing that all doubts and ambiguities should be put away, and the law in this case declared and put in a certainty, hath charged the said prelates, earls, barons, and other wise men of his council, assembled in this Parliament, to deliberate upon this point; all which of one assent have said, that the law of the crown of England is, and always hath been such, that the children of the Kings of England, in whatsoever parts they be born, in England or elsewhere, be able and ought to bear the inheritance after the death of their ancestors; which law our said lord the King, the said prelates, earls, barons, and other great men, and all the commons assembled in this Parliament, do approve and affirm for ever. And in the right of other children born out of the ligeance of England in the time of our lord the King, they be of one mind accorded, that Henry son of John de Beaumond, Elizabeth daughter of Guy de Bryan, and Giles son of Ralph Dawbeny, and other which the King will name, which were born beyond the sea, out of the ligeance of England, shall be from henceforth able to have and enjoy their inheritance after the death of their ancestors, in all parts within the ligeance of England, as well as those that should be born within the same ligeance. And that all children inheritors, which from henceforth shall be born without the ligeance of the King, whose fathers and mothers at the time of their birth be and shall be at the faith and ligeance of the King of England, shall have and enjoy the same benefits and advantages, to have and bear the inheritance within the same ligeance, as the other inheritors aforesaid in time to come; so always, that the mothers of such children do pass the sea by the licence and wills of their husbands. And if it be alledged against any such born beyond the sea, that he is a bastard, in case where the bishop ought to have cognisance of bastardy, it shall be commanded to the bishop of the place where the demand is, to certify the King's court where the plea thereof hangeth, as of old times hath been used in the case of bastardy alledged against them which were born in England.

The King's children declared inheritable in England, whereseever born.

The children of certain persons born beyond the sea declared inheritable.

All children born beyond sea, of parents in the King's allegiance, henceforth inheritable.

Trial of bastardy in such cases.

28 EDWARD III. A. D. 1354.

Chap. III. None shall be condemned without due process of law.

Item, that no man of what estate or condition that he be, shall be put out of land or tenement, nor taken, nor imprisoned, nor disinherited, nor put to death, without being brought in answer by due process of the law.

Concerning Precontracts and Degrees of Consanguinite.[1]

Usurped power of the see of Rome heretofore exercised;

WHERAS heretofore the usurped power of the bishop of Rome hathe alwayes entangled and troubled the mere jurisdiction and legal power of this realme of England, and also unquietid muche the subjectis of the same by his usurped power in them, as by making that unlaufull whiche by Goddis wourde is laufull bothe in mariages and other thinges as heraftre shall appere at more length; and till nowe of late in our souveraine lordes tyme, whiche is otherwise by larning tawght than his predecessours in tymes past of longe tyme have ben, hath so contynued the same, wherof yet some sparkis be lefte whiche heraftre might kindle a greater fyer and so remayning his power not to seme utterly extincte, therefore it is thought mooste convenient to the Kinges Highnes his lordes spirituall and temporall with the comons of his realme assembled in this present Parlament that twoo thinges specially for this tyme be with diligence provided for, whereby many inconveniences hath ensued and many moo els mought ensue and followe: As where heretofore divers and many personnes after longe contynuaunces togither in matrimonye, without any allegation of either of the parties or anny other at their mariage whie the same matrimony should not be good juste and laufull, and after the same matrimony solemnised and consummate by carnall knowlege, and also some tyme fruite of children ensued of the same mariage, have nevertheless by an unjuste lawe of the bishop of Rome, whiche is that uppon pretence of a former contracte made and not consummate by carnall copulation, for profe wherof twoo witnes by that lawe were onely required, ben divorsed and separate contrarie to Goddis lawe, and so the true matrimony bothe solemnised in the face of the Church and consummate with bodily knowlege and confirmed also with the fruite of children had betwene them clerely frustrate and dissolved:

Chapter I.

The Peticion Exhibited to His Majestie by the Lords Spirituall and Temporall and Commons in this present Parliament assembled concerning Divers Rights and Liberties of the Subjects: with the Kings Majesties Royall Aunswere thereunto in full Parliament.

Rot. Parl. nu. 1.

To the Kings Most Excellent Majestie.

Reciting that by (25) 34 Ed. I, st. 4, c. 1, by authority of Parliament holden 25 Ed. III, and by other laws of this realm, the king's subjects should not be taxed but by consent in Parliament;

Humbly shew unto our soveraigne lord the King the lords spirituall and temporall and commons in Parliament assembled, that whereas it is declared and enacted by a Statute made in the tyme of the raigne of King Edward the First commonly called Statutum de Tallagio non concedendo, that no Tallage or ayde should be layd or levyed by the King or his heires in this realme without the good will and assent of the archbishopps bishopps earles barons knights burgesses and other the freemen of the commonaltie of this realme, and by authoritie of Parliament holden in the five and twentith yeare of the raigne of King Edward the Third, it is declared and enacted, that from thenceforth no person should be compelled to make any loanes to the King against his will because such loanes were against reason and the franchise of the land, and by other lawes of this realme it is provided, that none should be charged by any charge or imposicion called a benevolence nor by such like charge by which the statutes before mencioned and other the good lawes and statutes of this realme your subjects have inherited this freedome that they should [not[1]] be compelled to contribute to any taxe tallage ayde or other like charge not sett by common consent in Parliament.

II. and that commissions have of late issued on which proceedings have been had contrary to law.

Yet neverthelesse of late divers commissions directed to sundry commissioners in severall counties with instruccions have issued, by meanes whereof your people have been in divers places assembled and required to lend certaine sommes of mony unto your Majestie, and many of them uppon their refusall soe to doe have had an oath administered unto them not warrantable by the lawes or statutes of this realme and have been constrayned to become bound to make apparance and give attendance before your privie councell and in other places; and others of them have been therefore imprisoned confined and sundry other waies molested and disquieted and divers other charges have been laid and levied upon your people in severall counties by lord lieutenants deputie lieutenants commissioners for musters justices of peace and others by commaund or direccion from your Majestie or your privie councell against the lawes and free customes of the realme.

III. Reciting 9 Hen. III. M.C. c. 29.

AND where alsoe by the Statute called the Great Charter of the liberties of England, it is declared and enacted, that no freeman may be taken or imprisoned or be disseised of his freehold or liberties or his free customes or be outlawed or exiled or in any manner destroyed, but by the lawfull judgment of his peeres or by the law of the land.

IV. 28 Edw. III. c. 3;

AND in the eight and twentith yeere of the raigne of King Edward the Third it was declared and enacted by authoritie of Parliament, that no man of what estate or condicion that he be, should be put out of his land or tenements nor taken nor imprisoned nor disherited nor put to death without being brought to aunswere by due processe of lawe.

V. and that divers subjects have been imprisoned without cause shewn, or cause of detainer certified;

NEVERTHELESSE against the tenor of the said statutes and other the good lawes and statutes of your realme to that end provided, divers of your subjects have of late been imprisoned without any cause shewed: And when for their deliverance they were brought before your justices by your Majesties writts of habeas corpus there to undergoe and receive as the court should order, and their keepers commaunded to certifie the causes of their detayner, no cause was certified, but that they were deteined by your Majesties speciall commaund signified by the lords of your privie councell, and yet were returned [illegible] to severall prisons without being charged with any thing to which they might make aunswere according to the lawe.

VI. and that soldiers have been dispersed in divers counties, and inhabitants compelled to receive them.

AND whereas of late great companies of souldiers and marriners have been dispersed into divers counties of the realme, and the inhabitants against their wills have been compelled to receive them into their houses, and there to suffer them to sojourne against the lawes and customes of this realme and to the great greivance and vexacion of the people.

VII. 25 Edw. III.

AND whereas alsoe by authoritie of Parliament in the five and twentith yeare of the raigne of King Edward the Third it is declared and enacted that no man should be forejudged of life or limbe against the forme of the Great Charter and the lawe of the land, and by the said Great Charter, and other the lawes and statutes of this your realme no man ought to be adjudged to death but by the lawes established in this your realme, either by the customes of the same realme or by Acts of Parliament: And whereas no offendor of what kinde soever is exempted from the proceedings to be used and punishments to be inflicted by the lawes and statutes of this your realme, neverthelesse of late [tyme[1]] divers commissions under your Majesties great seale have issued forth, by which certaine persons have been assigned and appointed commissioners with power and authoritie to proceed within the land and that commissions have issued under the great seal for proceed-according to the justice of martiall lawe against such souldiers or marriners or other dissolute persons joyning with them as should committ any murther robbery felony mutiny or other outrage or misdemeanor whatsoever, and by such summary course and order as is agreeable to martiall lawe and as is used in armies in tyme of warr to proceed to the tryall and condemnacion of such offenders, and them to cause to be executed and putt to death according to the lawe martiall. ings according to martial-law.

By pretext whereof some of your Majesties subjects have been by some of the said commissioners put to death, when and where, if by the lawes and statutes of the land they had deserved death, by the same lawes and statutes alsoe they might and by no other ought to have byn judged and executed.

And alsoe sundrie greivous offendors by colour thereof clayming an exempcion have escaped the punishments due to them by the lawes and statutes of this your realme, by reason that divers of your officers and ministers of justice have unjustlie refused or forborne to proceed against such offendors according to the same lawes and statutes uppon pretence that the said offendors were punishable onelie by martiall law and by authoritie of such commissions as aforesaid. [redacted]s and all other of like nature are wholly and directlie contrary to the [redacted]awes and statutes of this your realme.

They doe therefore humblie pray your most excellent Majestie, that no man hereafter be compelled to make or yeild any guift loane benevolence taxe or such like charge without common consent by Acte of Parliament, and that none be called to make aunswere or take such oath or to give attendance or be confined or otherwise molested or disquieted concerning the same or for refusall thereof. And that no freeman in any such manner as is before mencioned be imprisoned or deteined. And that your Majestie would be pleased to remove the said souldiers and mariners and that your people may not be soe burthened in tyme to come. And that the aforesaid commissions for proceeding by martiall lawe may be revoked and annulled. And that hereafter no commissions of like nature may issue forth to any person or persons whatsoever to be executed as aforesaid, lest by colour of them any of your Majesties subjects be destroyed or put to death contrary to the lawes and franchise of the land. VIII. The petition.

All which they most humblie pray of your most excellent Majestie as their rights and liberties according to the lawes and statutes of this realme, and that your Majestie would alsoe vouchsafe to declare that the awards doings and proceedings to the prejudice of your people in any of the premisses shall not be drawen hereafter into consequence or example. And that your Majestie would be alsoe graciouslie pleased for the further comfort and safetie of your people to declare your royall will and pleasure, that in the things aforesaid all your officers and ministers shall serve you according to the lawes and statutes of this realme as they tender the honor of your Majestie and the prosperitie of this kingdome.

Qua quidem peticione lecta & plenius intellecta per dictum dominum regem taliter est responsum in pleno parliamento videlicet.

[1] "The Advocate General argued that the Habeas Corpus Act (31 Car. II, cap. 2) was not part of the statute-law introduced into India. His argument may be well founded as to certain parts of that statute, which apply specially or by name to the superior courts of common law at Westminster. But other parts, which are general in their terms, apparently do apply to India,"—Re Amir Khán, 6 Beng. 444, per Norman J. See, too, The King v. Gordon, East's Notes, 2 Morl. Dig. 223. Mr. Anstey, 6 Beng. 418, 420, contended that 56 Geo. III, c. 100 (for more effectually securing the liberty of the subject) also applied to India.

The Code of Criminal Procedure (Act X of 1872), section 82, enacts that "neither the High Courts nor any Judge of such High Courts shall issue any writ of habeas corpus ..... beyond the Presidency Towns." One effect of this is apparently to revive the power to issue such writs into British India which the Court of Queen's Bench at Westminster possessed down to the year 1826, when 25 Vic., cap. 20, was passed. Writs of habeas corpus are not to be issued for any of the seven purposes specified in the High Courts Criminal Procedure Act, X of 1875, section 148.

Chapter CXLII.

An Act for the better Administration of Justice at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay; and for preventing British Subjects from being concerned in Loans to the Native Princes in India. [20th July 1797.]

Preamble. 13 Geo. 3. c. 63.

Whereas by an Act passed in the thirteenth year of the reign of his present Majesty, intituled "An Act for establishing certain regulations for the better management of the affairs of the East India Company, as well in India as in Europe," it was enacted, that it should be lawful for his Majesty, by letters patent under the great seal of Great Britain, to erect and establish a supreme court of judicature at Fort William in Bengal, to consist of a chief justice and three other justices, being barristers of England or Ireland of not less than five years standing, to be named from time to time by his Majesty, his heirs and successors: And whereas by the said Act and by divers other Acts of Parliament certain jurisdictions, powers and authorities were given to the said court to be exercised in the manner therein directed: And whereas it may be expedient that the number of judges should be reduced: Be it enacted by the King's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, that immediately after the death, resignation or removal of any of the puisne judges of the said supreme court, that the office of one of the said puisne judges shall be and the same is hereby suppressed, and from and immediately after such death, resignation or removal, the said Supreme

On the death, &c. of any of the puisne judges of the Supreme Court of Court shall consist of a chief justice and two other judges only; and all powers jurisdictions and authorities whatsoever shall, from and after such period as aforesaid, be enjoyed and exercised by the said chief justice and other judges, in as full and ample a manner as the same might have been held, enjoyed and exercised by the said Supreme Court under the authority of the said herein-before recited Act or any other Act or Acts of Parliament, or under the charter of justice granted by his Majesty under the authority of the same.

CHAPTER LXXXV.

An Act for the trying and punishing in Great Britain Persons holding public Employments, for Offences committed abroad; and for extending the Provisions of an Act passed in the Twenty-first Year of the Reign of King James, made for the ease of Justices and others in pleading in Suits brought against them, to all Persons, either in or out of this Kingdom, authorized to commit to safe custody. [22nd June 1802.]

WHEREAS persons holding and exercising public employments out of Great Britain often escape punishment for offences committed by them for want of courts having a sufficient jurisdiction in or by reason of their departing from the country or place where such offences have been committed, and that such persons cannot be tried in Great Britain for such offences as the law now stands, inasmuch as such offences cannot be laid to have been committed within the body of any county: And whereas it is therefore expedient that such and the like provisions as are contained in an Act passed in the eleventh and twelfth years of the reign of his late Majesty King William the Third, intituled "An Act to punish governors of plantations of this kingdom for crimes by them committed in the plantations," and in an Act passed in the thirteenth year of the reign of His present Majesty, intituled "An Act for establishing certain regulations for the better management of the affairs of the East India Company, as well in India as in Europe," and in an Act passed in the twenty-fourth year of the reign of His present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the better regulation and management of the affairs of the East India Company, and of the British possessions in India, and for establishing a court of judicature for the more speedy and effectual trial of persons accused of offences committed in the East Indies," should be extended and applied to the punishment of such offenders: May it therefore please your Majesty that it may be enacted, and be it enacted by the King's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, that, from and after the passing of this Act, if any person who now is, or heretofore has been, or shall hereafter be employed by or in the service of his Majesty, his heirs or successors, in any civil or military station, office, or capacity out of Great Britain, or shall heretofore have had, held, or exercised, or now has, holds, or exercises, or shall hereafter have, hold, or exercise any public station, office, capacity, or employment, out of Great Britain, shall have committed, or shall commit, or shall have heretofore been, or is, or shall hereafter be guilty of any crime, misdemeanor, or offence, in the execution, or under colour, or in the exercise of any such station, office, capacity, or employment as aforesaid, every such crime, offence, or misdemeanor may be prosecuted or enquired of, and heard and determined in his Majesty's Court of King's Bench here in England, either upon an information exhibited by his Majesty's attorney general, or upon an indictment found, in which information or indictment such crime, offence, or misdemeanor may be laid and charged to have been committed in the county of Middlesex, and all such persons so offending, and also all persons tried under any of the provisions of the said recited Act passed in the reign of King William aforesaid, or this Act, or either of them, for any offence, crime, or misdemeanor, and not having been before tried for the same out of Great Britain, shall, on conviction, be liable to such punishment as may, by any law or laws now in force, or any Act or Acts that may hereafter be passed, be inflicted for any such crime, misdemeanor, or offence committed in England, and shall also be liable, at the discretion of his Majesty's Court of King's Bench, to be adjudged to be incapable of serving his Majesty in any station, office, or capacity, civil or military, or of holding or exercising any public employment whatever.

The Court of King's Bench, on motion, may award a writ of mandamus to any court of judicature, or the governor, &c., of the country where the offence was committed, to obtain proofs of the matters charged in the indictment; which shall be obtained by viva voce evidence, and the same shall be transmitted to the Court of King's Bench, and admitted on the trial, &c.

II. And be it further enacted, that in all cases of indictments found or informations exhibited under and by virtue of this Act, it shall be lawful for his Majesty's said Court of King's Bench, upon motion to be made, and such notice thereof as to the said Court of King's Bench may appear to be sufficient, by or on behalf of his Majesty's attorney general or other prosecutor, or of the defendant or defendants, to award, at the discretion of the said court, a writ or writs of mandamus to any chief justice and judges, or any chief justice or other judge singly for the time being, of any court or courts of judicature in the country or island, or near to the place where the crime, offence, or misdemeanor shall be charged in such indictment or information to have been committed, or to any governor or lieutenant governor or other person having any chief authority in such country, island, or place, or to any other person or persons residing there, as the case may require, and as to the said Court of King's Bench may, under all the circumstances of the case, seem most expedient, for the purpose of obtaining and receiving proofs concerning the matters charged in any such indictment or information; and the person or persons to whom such writ or writs shall be directed and sent are hereby respectively authorized and required to hold a court, session, or meeting, with all convenient speed, for the examination of witnesses and receiving other proofs concerning the matters charged in such indictment or information respectively, and in the meantime to cause public notice to be given of the holding the said court, session, or meeting, and to issue such summons or other process as may be requisite for the attendance of witnesses, and to adjourn from time to time as occasion may require; and such examination or examinations shall be then and there openly and publicly taken viva voce in the said court, session or meeting, upon questions put by any such prosecutor or prosecutors, defendant or defendants, or any agent or agents, person or persons, on behalf of the said attorney general or other prosecutor or prosecutors, and defendant or defendants respectively, if any such shall attend for that purpose, and by the Court, person or persons to whom such writ shall be directed and sent as aforesaid, upon the respective oaths of witnesses, and the oaths of skilful interpreters if necessary, administered according to the forms of their several religions, and shall, by some officer or person sworn for that purpose, be reduced into writing on parchment or paper, and in case any duplicate or duplicates shall be required by or on behalf of the prosecutor, or the defendant or defendants respectively, into two or more writings on parchment or paper, as the case may require; and such examination or examinations shall be sent to his Majesty in his Court of King's Bench closed up, and under the seal or seals of the person or persons before whom such examination or examinations as aforesaid shall have been taken; and the person or persons taking such examination or examinations as aforesaid shall deliver the same to any person or persons appointed by the said Court of King's Bench to receive the same, or shall transmit the same in such manner as the said Court of King's Bench shall direct; and all such examinations shall, with all convenient speed, be delivered to one of the clerks in court of his Majesty's Court of King's Bench, in the Crown office of the said court, for the safe custody thereof; and every clerk in the said Court of King's Bench, to whom any examination or examinations shall be delivered, is hereby authorized to administer an oath to the person delivering the same to him, in such form as the said Court of King's Bench shall direct; and such examination or examinations shall be allowed and read upon the trial of any such indictment or information, or any other subsequent proceeding thereon or relating thereto, and shall be deemed as good and competent evidence as if the witness or witnesses, whose examination or examinations shall be so read, had been present and sworn and examined viva voce at such trial, any law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding, saving all just exceptions to be taken to any such examination or examinations, or any part thereof, when the same shall be offered to be read as aforesaid, and all persons concerned shall be entitled to take copies of such examinations in the custody of such clerk in court at their own costs and charges.

Court of King's Bench may order an examination de bene esse, in cases where viva voce evidence cannot be had.

III. And be it further enacted, that it shall also be lawful for the said Court of King's Bench, upon motion to be made, and such notice thereof as aforesaid, by or on behalf of his Majesty's attorney general, or other prosecutor, or defendant or defendants in any such indictment or information, to order an examination de bene esse of witnesses upon interrogatories, in any case where the viva voce testimony of such witnesses cannot conveniently be had, to be taken before an examiner to be appointed by the said court; and the depositions taken upon such interrogatories shall be afterwards admitted to be read in evidence upon the trial of such indictment or information, or in any other subsequent proceeding thereon or relating thereto, and shall be deemed good and sufficient evidence in the law, saving all just exceptions to be taken to such depositions when the same shall be offered to be read as aforesaid.

Persons to whom such writs of mandamus shall be directed, shall do all things necessary for the due execution thereof by compelling the appearance and giving evidence of witnesses, &c.

IV. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for any person or persons to whom any such writ or writs of mandamus shall be directed or order sent as aforesaid, and, in case the same shall be directed or sent to more than one person, for so many of them as shall for that purpose be appointed by the said writ or required by the said order, and who shall act in the execution thereof, and such person and persons is and are hereby respectively authorized and required, to administer all oaths required to be taken under any of the provisions of this Act, or necessary for the due execution of any such writ or order, or any act, matter, or thing relating thereto, and to examine upon oath all persons whom he or they find occasion to summon, and all other persons whom he or they shall think fit to examine, touching all matters and things necessary for the due execution of any such writ or order as aforesaid; and such person and persons respectively to whom such writ shall be directed or order sent as aforesaid, or so many of them as shall in that behalf be appointed and shall act in the execution thereof as aforesaid, shall have full power and authority to compel the appearance and giving evidence of any witness upon any such writ or order, and to issue special summons or other process for that purpose, and may proceed upon such summons or other process, by imprisonment of the body of any person refusing to appear or give evidence, in like manner as any court or courts of record within this kingdom, having competent authority for that purpose, may proceed against any person or persons for any contempt committed against the authority of any such court.

Persons giving false evidence shall be subject to the pains inflicted for perjury.

and may direct new trials of issues.

XIII. And be it enacted, that it shall be lawful for the said judicial committee to direct one or more new trial or new trials of any issue, either generally or upon certain points only; and that in case any witness examined at a former trial of the same issue shall have died, or have, through bodily or mental disease or infirmity, become incapable to repeat his testimony, it shall be lawful for the said committee to direct that parol evidence of the testimony of such witness shall be received.

His Majesty may appoint registrar.

XVIII. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for his Majesty, under his sign manual, to appoint any person to be the registrar of the said privy council, as regards the purposes of this Act, and to direct what duties shall be performed by the said registrar.

XIX. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for the president for the time being of the said privy council to require the attendance of any witnesses, and the production of any deeds, evidences, or writings, by writ to be issued by such president in such and the same form, or as nearly as may be, as that in which a writ of subpœna ad testificandum or of subpœna duces tecum is now issued by his Majesty's Court of King's Bench at Westminster; and that every person disobeying any such writ so to be issued by the said president shall be considered as in contempt of the said judicial committee, and shall also be liable to such and the same penalties and consequences as if such writ had issued out of the said Court of King's Bench, and may be sued for such penalties in the said court.

XXI. And be it further enacted, that the order or decree of his Majesty in council on any appeal from the order, sentence, or decree of any court of justice in the East Indies, or of any colony, plantation, or other his Majesty's dominions abroad, shall be carried into effect in such manner, and subject to such limitations and conditions, as his Majesty in council shall, on the recommendation of the said judicial committee, direct; and it shall be lawful for his Majesty in council, on such recommendation, by order to direct that such court of justice shall carry the same into effect accordingly, and thereupon such court of justice shall have the same powers of carrying into effect and enforcing such order or decree as are possessed by or are hereby given to his Majesty in council: Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall impeach or abridge the powers, jurisdiction, or authority of his Majesty's privy council as heretofore exercised by such council, or in anywise alter the constitution or duties of the said privy council, except so far as the same are expressly altered by this Act, and for the purposes aforesaid.

[Repealed, Stat. Law Rev. Act, 1861.]

His Majesty may direct the East India Company to bring on appeals from the Sudder Dewanny Adawlut courts to a hearing, &c.

Orders made on such appeals to have effect notwithstanding death of parties, &c.

XXIV. 6 Geo. 4. c. 90.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the fifty-seventh year of the reign of his late Majesty King George the Third, to enable his Majesty to recompense the services of persons holding or who have held certain high and efficient civil offices, his Majesty is empowered to grant pensions, as therein provided, to persons who shall have served his Majesty, his heirs or successors, in the offices therein mentioned: And whereas by an Act passed in the sixth year of the reign of his late Majesty King George the Fourth, for amending the said recited Act, it is enacted, that the several other offices therein particularly described shall be deemed to be comprised in the several classes of offices in the said recited Act respectively specified: And whereas it is expedient that the amount of the pensions by the said two Acts authorized to be granted should as to future pensions be reduced, and the conditions under which the same shall be granted be altered and regulated: Be it therefore enacted by the King's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, that from and after the passing of this Act no pension to be granted to any person in respect of his having served in any one or more of the offices of first lord of the Treasury, or of one of his Majesty's principal secretaries of state, or chancellor of the Exchequer, or first lord of the Admiralty, or president of the board of commissioners for the affairs of India, or president of the committee of council appointed for the consideration of matters relating to trade and foreign plantations, shall exceed the sum of two thousand pounds per annum; nor shall any such pension be granted to any person unless he shall have held one or more of the said offices for a period of not less than two years in the whole, either uninterruptedly or at different times; nor shall any more or greater number than four such pensions hereafter to be granted be existing or in force at the same time. An Act to remove Doubts as to the Exercise of Power and Jurisdiction by Her Majesty within divers Countries and Places out of Her Majesty's Dominions, and to render the same more effectual. [24th August 1843.]

Whereas by treaty, capitulation, grant, usage, sufferance, and other lawful means, her Majesty hath power and jurisdiction within divers countries and places out of her Majesty's dominions: And whereas doubts have arisen how far the exercise of such power and jurisdiction is controlled by and dependent on the laws and customs of this realm, and it is expedient that such doubts should be removed: Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, that it is and shall be lawful for her Majesty to hold, exercise, and enjoy any power or jurisdiction which her Majesty now hath or may at any time hereafter have within any country or place out of her Majesty's dominions, in the same and as ample a manner as if her Majesty had acquired, such power or jurisdiction by the cession or conquest of territory.

The power acquired by her Majesty in countries out of her dominions shall be held on the same terms as if acquired by conquest or cession of territory.

II. And be it enacted, that every act, matter, and thing which may at any time be done, in pursuance of any such power or jurisdiction of her Majesty, in any country or place out of her Majesty's dominions, shall, in all courts ecclesiastical and temporal and elsewhere within her Majesty's dominions, be and be deemed and adjudged to be, in all cases and to all intents and purposes whatsoever, as valid and effectual as though the same had been done according to the local law then in force within such country or place.

Acts done in pursuance of such power to be of the same effect as if done under local laws.

III. And be it enacted, that if in any suit or other proceedings, whether civil or criminal, in any court ecclesiastical or temporal within her Majesty's dominions, any issue or question of law or of fact shall arise for the due determination whereof it shall, in the opinion of the judge or judges of such court, be necessary to produce evidence of the existence of any such power or jurisdiction as aforesaid, or of the extent thereof, it shall be lawful for the judge or judges of any such court, and he or they are hereby authorized, to transmit, under his or their hand and seal or hands and seals, to one of her Majesty's principal secretaries of state, questions by him or them properly framed respecting such of the matters aforesaid as it may be necessary to ascertain in order to the due determination of any such issue or question as aforesaid; and such secretary of state is hereby empowered and required, within a reasonable time in that behalf, to cause proper and sufficient answers to be returned to all such questions, and to be directed to the said judge or judges, or their successors; and such answers shall, upon production thereof, be final and conclusive evidence, in such suit or other proceedings, of the several matters therein contained and required to be ascertained thereby.

Courts authorized to procure evidence of the existence of such power by application to secretary of state.

IV. And whereas it may in certain cases be expedient that crimes and offences committed within such countries or places as aforesaid should be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished within her Majesty's dominions: Be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for any person having authority derived from her Majesty in that behalf, by warrant under his hand and seal,

Power to send persons charged with crimes in any such counties for trial to a British colony.

to cause any person charged with the commission of any crime or offence the cognizance whereof may at any time appertain to any judge, magistrate, or other officer of her Majesty within any such country or place as aforesaid to be sent for trial to any British colony which her Majesty may by any order or orders in council from time to time appoint in that behalf; and upon the arrival of such person within such colony it shall and may be lawful for the supreme court exercising criminal jurisdiction within the same to cause such person to be kept in safe and proper custody, and, so soon as conveniently may be, to inquire of, try, and determine such crime or offence, and upon conviction of the person so charged as aforesaid to correct and punish him according to the laws in force in that behalf within such colony, in the same manner as if the said crime or offence had been committed within the jurisdiction of such supreme court: Provided always, that before any such person shall be sent for trial to any such colony as aforesaid it shall be lawful for him to tender for examination to the judge, magistrate, or other officer of her Majesty, to whom the cognizance of the crime or offence with which he is charged may appertain within the country or place where the same may be alleged to have been committed, any competent witness or witnesses, the evidence of whom he may deem material for his defence, and whom he may allege himself to be unable to produce at his trial in the said colony; and the said judge, magistrate, or other officer shall thereupon proceed in the examination and cross-examination of such witness or witnesses in the same manner as though the same had been tendered at a trial before such judge, magistrate, or other officer, and shall cause the evidence so taken to be reduced into writing, and shall transmit a copy of such evidence to the supreme court before which the trial of such person is to take place, together with a certificate under his hand and seal of the correctness of such copy; and thereupon it shall be lawful for the said supreme court, and it is hereby required, to allow so much of the evidence so taken as aforesaid as would have been admissible according to the law and practice of the said supreme court, had the said witness or witnesses been produced and examined at the trial before the said court, to be read and received as legal evidence at such trial: Provided also, that if it shall be made to appear at such trial that the laws by which the person charged with any criminal act would have been tried, had his trial taken place before a judge, magistrate, or other officer of her Majesty in the country or place in which such act may be alleged to have been committed, vary from or are inconsistent with the laws in force within such colony, in respect either of the criminality of the act charged, or of the nature or degree of the alleged crime or offence, or of the punishment to be awarded for the same, such supreme court is hereby empowered and required to admit and give effect to the laws by which such

Before any such person shall be sent to any colony for trial he may tender to the judge sending him any material evidence that he would be unable to produce on trial, which shall be taken down and transmitted to the court of the colony, and so much thereof shall be admitted as would have been admissible if the witnesses had been produced before the court.

In case the laws of the place in which the act was committed vary from those of the colony the court may give effect to them.

person would have been so tried as aforesaid, so far as but not further or otherwise than the same relate to the criminality of such act, or to the nature or degree of such crime or offence, or to the punishment thereof: Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to alter or repeal any law, statute, or usage by virtue of which any crime or offence committed out of her Majesty's dominions might, at the time of the passing of this Act, be inquired of, tried, determined, and punished within her Majesty's dominions, or any part thereof, but the same shall remain in full force and effect, any thing herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

Nothing herein to alter any law respecting trial within her Majesty's dominions of crimes committed out of such dominions.

V. And whereas it may likewise in certain cases be expedient that the sentences passed within such countries and places as aforesaid at the trial of crimes and offences within the same should be carried into effect within her Majesty's dominions: Be it enacted, that if any offender shall have been sentenced to suffer death or imprisonment for or in respect of any crime or offence of which such offender shall have been lawfully convicted before any judge, magistrate, or other officer of her Majesty within any such country or place as aforesaid it shall be lawful for any person having authority derived from her Majesty in that behalf, by warrant under his hand and seal, to cause such offender to be sent to any British colony which her Majesty may by any order or orders in council from time to time appoint in that behalf, in order that the sentence so passed upon such offender may be carried into effect within the same; and the magistrates, gaolers, and other officers to whom it may appertain to give effect to any sentence passed by the supreme court exercising criminal jurisdiction within such colony are hereby empowered and required to do all acts and things necessary to carry into effect the sentence so passed upon such offender, in the same manner as though the same had been passed by such supreme court.

Power to send person convicted before any judge in any such country to a British colony for execution or imprisonment.

VI. And be it enacted, that if any offender shall have been ordered or sentenced to be transported beyond the seas by any judge, magistrate, or other officer of her Majesty within any such country or place as aforesaid, or, having been adjudged to suffer death, shall have received her Majesty's most gracious pardon upon condition of transportation beyond the seas, it shall be lawful for any person having authority derived from her Majesty in that behalf to cause such offender to be sent to any place beyond seas to which convicts may at any time be lawfully transported from any part of her Majesty's dominions, and, if there shall be no convenient means of transporting such offender without bringing him to England, to cause such offender to be brought to England in order to be transported, and to be imprisoned in any place of confinement provided under the authority of any law or statute relating to the transportation of offenders convicted in England, until such offender shall be transported enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, that all the provisions of the said Consolidated Slave Trade Act herein-before recited and of this present Act shall, from and after the coming into operation of this Act, be deemed to extend and apply to British subjects wheresoever residing or being, and whether within the dominions of the British crown or of any foreign country; and all the several matters and things prohibited by the said Consolidated Slave Trade Act or by this present Act, when committed by British subjects, whether within the dominions of the British crown or in any foreign country, except only as is herein-after excepted, shall be deemed and taken to be offences committed against the said several Acts respectively, and shall be dealt with and punished accordingly: Provided nevertheless, that nothing herein contained shall repeal or alter any of the provisions of the said Act.

Act and this Act shall apply to all British subjects wheresoever residing.

Pawns to be deemed slaves under recited Act and 3 & 4 Will. 4. c. 73. and this Act.

II. And be it declared and enacted, that all persons holden in servitude as pledges for debt, and commonly called "pawns," or by whatsoever other name they may be called or known, shall, for the purposes of the said Consolidated Slave Trade Act, and of an Act passed in the third and fourth years of the reign of King William the Fourth, intituled "An Act for the abolition of "slavery throughout the British colonies, for promoting the industry of the "manumitted slaves, and for compensating the persons hitherto entitled to the "services of such slaves," and of this present Act, be deemed and construed to be slaves or persons intended to be dealt with as slaves.

Evidence may be taken abroad, and transmitted to the court of Queen's Bench, on indictments, &c. for offences under recited Acts and this Act.

IV. And whereas the provisions heretofore made for the hearing and determining in England of offences committed against the Acts for the abolition of the slave trade in places out of this United Kingdom have been found ineffectual, by reason of the difficulty of proving in this kingdom matters and things done elsewhere: Be it enacted, that in all cases of indictment or information laid or exhibited in the Court of Queen's Bench for misdemeanors or offences committed against the said Acts or against this present Act in any places out of the United Kingdom, and within any British colony, settlement, plantation, or territory, it shall and may be lawful for her Majesty's said court, upon motion to be made on behalf of the prosecutor or defendant, to award a writ or writs of mandamus, requiring the chief justice or other chief judicial officer in such colony, settlement, plantation, or territory, who are hereby respectively authorized and required accordingly, to hold a court, with all convenient speed, for the examination of witnesses and receiving other proofs concerning the matters charged in such indictments or informations respectively, and in the meantime to cause public notice to be given of the

V. PROVIDED always, and be it enacted, that in all the cases in which the holding or taking of slaves shall not be prohibited by this or any other Act of Parliament, it shall be lawful to sell or transfer such slaves, any thing in this or any other Act contained notwithstanding. In cases not prohibited by Parliament slaves may be sold or transferred.

VI. PROVIDED always, and be it enacted, that nothing in this Act contained shall be taken to subject to any forfeiture, punishment, or penalty any person for transferring or receiving any share in any joint stock company established before the passing of this Act in respect of any slave or slaves in the possession of such company before such time, or for selling any slave or slaves which were lawfully in his possession at the time of passing this Act, or which such person shall or may have become possessed of or entitled unto bonâ fide prior to such sale, by inheritance, devise, bequest, marriage, or otherwise by operation of law. WHEREAS by an Act passed in the session of Parliament held in the first and second years of the reign of her present Majesty, intituled "An Act "for securing to authors in certain cases the benefit of international copy-"right" (and which Act is herein-after, for the sake of perspicuity, designated as "the International Copyright Act"), her Majesty was empowered by order in council to direct that the authors of books which should after a future time 1 & 2 Vict. c. 59.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen as to the proper authority by which, in certain cases, courts-martial may be appointed and convened, and the sentences thereof confirmed, in the East Indies and elsewhere; and it is important to the maintenance of good order and military discipline that such doubts should be removed: Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the lords spiritual and temporal, and commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, that, any law, custom, usage, statute, regulations, articles of war, or warrant to the contrary notwithstanding, any general or other officer who may from time to time have power to appoint or convene general or district or other courts-martial for the trial of offences committed by any of the officers or soldiers in the service of her Majesty, or by any of the officers, soldiers, or followers in the service of the East India Company, not being natives of the East Indies or other places within the limits of the said company's charter, or by any of the officers, soldiers, or followers in the service of the said company, being natives of the East Indies or other places within the limits aforesaid, shall, without any further or other authority or warrant, have power and authority to appoint or convene general or district or other courts-martial (as the case may be) to be holden for the trial of offences committed by any officer, soldier, or follower in any of the said services who may be under the actual command or who may be or come within the local limits of the command of such general or other officer, although the power of such officer as to appointing or convening courts-martial might but for this Act extend to one or more of the said services only, or to some only of the forces belonging to any one or more of such services; and that in like manner any general or other officer who may from time to time have power to confirm sentences of general or district or other courts-martial for the trial of offences committed by any of the officers or soldiers in the service of her Majesty, or by any of the officers, soldiers, or followers in the service of the East India Company, not being natives as aforesaid, or by any of the officers, soldiers, or followers in the service of the East India Company, being such natives as aforesaid, shall, without any further or other authority or warrant, have power and authority to confirm sentences of general or district or other courts-martial (as the case may be) held

Any officer who may have power to convene or confirm sentences of courts-martial for trial of offences either committed by the Queen's troops, or by the East India Company's troops, not being natives of the East Indies or places within the Company's charter, or by Company's troops, being natives of such places, may convene or confirm sentences of courts-martial for trial of offences committed by any troops under his actual command or within the local limits of his command, although but for this Act his powers would not have extended to such troops.

for the trial of any officer or soldier or follower in any of the said services who may be under the actual command or who may be or come within the local limits of the command of such general or other officer, although the power of such officer, as to confirming the sentences of courts-martial, might but for this Act extend to one or more of the said services only, or to some only of the forces belonging to any one or more of such services.

Such powers may be exercised wheresoever the offenders may be serving or the offence may have been committed.

II. And be it enacted, that the said several powers may be exercised as aforesaid to whichsoever of the presidencies of Fort William, Fort Saint George, or Bombay the offender may belong, or whether the general or other officer appointing or convening the court-martial, or confirming the sentence, may be the officer commanding in chief in India, or at the presidency to which the offender may belong, or at any other presidency, or may hold his command or his power to appoint, convene, or confirm the sentences of courts-martial from or under the officer commanding in chief in India, or at the presidency to which the offender may belong, or at any other presidency, or may hold such command or power from or under any other authority whatsoever, or whether the offence shall have been committed before or after the officer appointing or convening the court or confirming the sentence shall have taken the command, or before or after the offender shall have been under the command of such officer, or before or after the offender shall have been or shall have come within the local limits of the command of such officer, or wheresoever, whether within the presidency to which the offender may belong, or within any other presidency, possessions, or territories under the government of the said company, or on the high seas, or elsewhere, the offender may be serving, or the offence shall have been committed, or the court-martial shall be appointed, convened, or held.

Her Majesty may authorize commander-in-chief and general commanding in each presidency to delegate power of confirming sentences of general courts-martial.

III. And be it enacted, that, any articles of war or usage to the contrary notwithstanding, her Majesty may grant warrants under her sign manual severally empowering the officer commanding in chief the forces in India, and the general or other officer commanding the forces at each or any of the presidencies of Fort William, Fort Saint George, and Bombay for the time being, to authorize any general or other officer not below the rank of a field officer, having the commaud of any body of the troops of her Majesty or of the said company serving in the possessions or territories which are or may be under the government of the said company or elsewhere, to confirm the sentences of general courts-martial which shall be holden for the trial of offences committed by any officer, soldier, or follower of or belonging to such troops; and the officer commanding in chief the forces in India, or the general or other officer commanding the forces at any of the said presidencies, being so empowered, may authorize any such general or other officer to confirm such classes of sentences only, or sentences passed for such classes of offences only, or on such classes of persons only, as he may think fit, reserving to himself the power of confirming sentences in all such cases as such general or other officer may not be authorized to confirm, or may think fit to send for the decision of such officer commanding in chief the forces in India, or of such officer commanding the forces at one of the said presidencies.

In what cases confirmation of officers commanding in presidency to which offender belongs may be dispensed with.

IV. And be it enacted, that when, by any Act of Parliament or articles of war, the sentence of a court-martial is not to be carried into execution until confirmed by the general or other officer commanding in chief at the presidency in the territories subordinate to which the offender shall have been tried, with the concurrence of the governor general in council, or governor in council, or governor of such presidency, it shall not be necessary, in any such case, that a sentence so confirmed, with such concurrence, should, in addition, be reported to or approved or confirmed by the general or other officer commanding in chief the forces of the presidency to which the offender may belong; and the officer confirming the sentence, with such concurrence, and in all other cases the officer authorized under the provisions in this Act contained to confirm the sentence of any court-martial, shall have power to cause the same to be put into execution, or to suspend, mitigate, or remit the same.

Confirmation required of sentences of death, &c. on commissioned officers.

V. And be it enacted, that nothing in this Act contained shall empower any person not otherwise duly authorized in that behalf to confirm any sentence of death, transportation, or cashiering on any commissioned officer employed upon her Majesty's staff, or serving in any of her Majesty's regular regiments; and that nothing in this Act contained shall empower any officer, other than those herein-after mentioned, to confirm the sentence of death, transportation, or cashiering on a commissioned officer of the East India Company's service; (that is to say,) the general or other officer commanding in chief at the presidency within which, or in territories subordinate to which, the offender shall have been tried, or the general commanding in chief the army to which the division, brigade, or party in which the offender may be serving shall belong or be attached.

This Act not to affect laws, &c. now in force save as expressly provided.

VI. Provided always, and be it enacted, that, save as herein-before is expressly provided, this Act shall not alter or affect the laws, statutes, regulations, articles of war, usages, or customs which now are or hereafter may be in force with respect to her Majesty's forces or the forces of the said East India Company, whether natives or not of the East Indies or other places within the limits of the said company's charter: Provided also, that this Act shall not be construed as declaring or interpreting the extent of her Majesty's royal prerogative, or the meaning of any former Act or of any article of war.

This Act to extend only to persons

Her Majesty may by order in council declare that deserters from foreign merchant ships may be apprehended and given up.

I. WHENEVER it is made to appear to her Majesty that due facilities are or will be given for recovering and apprehending seamen who desert from British merchant ships in the territories of any foreign power, her Majesty may, by order in council stating that such facilities are or will be given, declare that seamen, not being slaves, who desert from merchant ships belonging to a subject of such power, when within her Majesty's dominions . . . . . , shall be liable to be apprehended and carried on board their respective ships, and may limit the operation of such order, and may render the operation thereof subject to such conditions and qualifications, if any, as may be deemed expedient.

In the United Kingdom the said commissioners acting under the sanction of one of her Majesty's principal secretaries of state, and in her Majesty's possessions abroad the respective governors thereof, may from time to time appoint, and the said commissioners and governors may at pleasure from time to time remove, such emigration officers and assistant emigration officers as they may respectively think necessary, for the purpose of carrying this Act into execution, under the direction of the said commissioners or governors, as the case may be: Provided nevertheless, that all existing appointments of emigration officers and of their assistants, as well in the United Kingdom as in her Majesty's possessions abroad, shall continue in force under this Act until duly revoked.

Existing appointments to continue until revoked.

Duties of emigration officer may be performed by his assistant, or by officer of customs.

VIII. All powers, functions, and duties to be exercised or performed by any such emigration officer shall be exercised and performed respectively by his assistant, or, at any port where there shall be no such emigration officer or assistant, or in their absence, by the chief officer of customs for the time being at such ports.

X. No ship fitted or intended for the carriage of passengers as a "passenger ship" shall clear out or proceed to sea until the master thereof shall have obtained from the emigration officer at the port of clearance a certificate under his hand that all the requirements of this Act, so far as the same can be complied with before the departure of such ship, have been duly complied with, nor until the master shall have joined in executing such bond to the crown as required by the fifty-ninth section of this Act.

ship to be cleared out without a certificate from emigration officer, nor until bond be given to the crown.

XI. If any "passsenger ship" shall clear out or proceed to sea without the master's having first obtained such certificate, or without his having joined in executing such bond, as by this Act is required, such ship shall be forfeited to the use of her Majesty, and may be seized by any officer of customs, if found, within two years from the commission of the offence, in any port or place in the United Kingdom or in her Majesty's possessions abroad; and such ship shall thereupon be dealt with in the same manner as if she had been seized as forfeited under any of the laws relating to the customs for an offence incurring forfeiture under those laws.

Such ship to be dealt with as if seized under laws relating to customs.

Arrangements for the ship.

XII. No ship shall clear out or shall proceed to sea with a greater number of passengers on board (exclusive of bonâ fidé cabin passengers) than will allow of the appropriation to them of the following space on the "passenger decks," unoccupied by stores, not being the personal luggage of the passengers; (that is to say,) if the ship is not intended to pass within the tropics, twelve clear superficial feet for every statute adult; but if the ship is intended to pass within the tropics, fifteen such clear superficial feet for every statute adult: Nor (unless the ship be propelled by steam) with a greater number of persons on board (including the master and crew, and cabin passengers, if any, and counting two children above the age of one year and under that of fourteen as one person,) than in the proportion of one person to every two tons of the registered tonnage of such ship. If there shall be on board of any ship at or after the time of clearance a greater number either of persons or of passengers than in the proportions respectively herein-before mentioned, the master of such ship shall be liable, on such conviction as hereinafter is mentioned, to a penalty not exceeding five pounds nor less than two pounds sterling for each person or passenger constituting any such excess.

Passengers to be carried only on the "passenger decks."

Number to be limited both by tonnage and space.

Penalty for excess of persons on Board.

XIII. The master of every ship, whether a "passenger ship" or otherwise, carrying passengers on any voyage to which this Act extends, shall, before demanding a clearance for such ship, sign two lists, made out according to the form contained in schedule (A) hereto annexed, correctly setting forth in the manner therein directed the name and other particulars of the ship, and of every passenger on board thereof; and the said lists, when countersigned by the emigration officer, where there is one at the port, shall be delivered by the master to the officer of the customs from whom a clearance of the said

Lists of additional passengers taken on board after clearance to be made out, and signed by master.

XIV. If at any time after such lists shall have been signed and delivered as aforesaid any additional passenger shall be taken on board, in every such case the master shall, according to the form aforesaid, add to "the master's list" the names and other particulars of every such additional passenger, and shall also sign a separate list, made out according to the form aforesaid, containing the names and other particulars of every such additional passenger; and such last-mentioned list, when countersigned by the emigration officer, where there is one at the port, shall, together with "the master's list" to which such addition shall have been made, be delivered to the chief officer of customs as aforesaid, and thereupon such officer shall countersign "the master's list," and shall return the same to the said master, and shall retain the separate list; and so on in like manner whenever any additional passenger or passengers may be taken on board; or if no officer of customs shall be stationed at the port or place where such additional passenger or passengers may be taken on board, the said lists shall be delivered to the officer of customs at the next port or place at which such vessel shall touch or arrive and where any such officer shall be stationed, to be dealt with as herein-before mentioned: Provided, that when any additional passengers shall be taken on board the master shall obtain a fresh certificate from the emigration officer of the port that all the requirements of this Act have been duly complied with, before the ship shall proceed to sea, and in default thereof shall be liable to a penalty for each offence not exceeding fifty pounds.

Penalty on persons found on board attempting fraudulently to obtain a passage, and on persons aiding and abetting.

XV. If any person shall be found on board any passenger ship, with intent to obtain a passage therein without the knowledge and consent of the owner, charterer, or master thereof, such person, and every person aiding and abetting him in such fraudulent intent, shall respectively be liable, on such summary conviction as herein-after mentioned, to a penalty not exceeding five pounds, and in default of payment to imprisonment, with hard labour, for a period not exceeding three calendar months; and such person so found on board may be taken before any justice of the peace, without warrant, and such justice may hear the case, and on proof of the offence convict such offender as aforesaid.

Arrangements for the ship.

All passenger ships to be surveyed before clearing out.

XVI. No "passenger ship" shall clear out or proceed to sea unless she shall have been surveyed, under the direction of the emigration officer at the port of clearance, but at the expense of the owner or charterer thereof, by two or more competent surveyors, to be appointed by the said colonial land and emigration commissioners for each port at which there may be an emigration officer, and for other ports by the commissioners of customs, nor unless it shall be reported by such surveyors, that such "passenger ship" is in their opinion seaworthy, and fit in all respects for her intended voyage: Provided always, that in case any "passenger ship" shall be reported by any such surveyors not to be seaworthy, nor fit in all respects for her said intended voyage, the owner or charterer, if he shall think fit, may require, by writing under his hand, the emigration officer, or in his absence the chief officer of customs, to appoint three other competent surveyors, of whom two at least shall be shipwrights, to survey the said ship, at the expense of the said owner or charterer; and the said officer shall thereupon appoint such surveyors, who shall survey the said ship, and if they shall, by an unanimous report under their hands (but not otherwise), declare the said ship to be seaworthy, and fit in all respects for her intended voyage, the said ship shall then, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed seaworthy for such voyage.

Beams and decks.

XVII. In every "passenger ship" the beams supporting the "passenger decks" shall form part of the permanent structure of the ship: They shall be of adequate strength, in the judgment of the emigration officer at the port of clearance, and shall be firmly secured to the ship to the satisfaction of such officer; the "passenger decks" shall be at least one inch and a half in thickness, and shall be laid and firmly fastened upon the beams continuously from side to side of the compartment in which the passengers are berthed, or substantially secured to the beams, at least three inches clear above the bottom thereof, to the satisfaction of such emigration officer: the height between any deck on which passengers are carried and the deck immediately above it shall not be less than six feet.

As to arrangement and size of berths.

XVIII. There shall not be more than two tiers of berths on any one deck in any "passenger ship," and the interval between the floor of the berths and the deck immediately beneath them shall not be less than six inches: The berths shall be securely constructed, and of dimensions not less than after the rate of six feet in length and eighteen inches in width for each statute adult, and shall be sufficient in number for the proper accommodation of all the passengers contained in the lists of passengers herein-before required to be delivered by the master of the ship.

Single men to be berthed in a separate compartment.

XIX. In every passenger ship all the unmarried male passengers of the age of fourteen years and upwards shall, to the satisfaction of the emigration officer at the port of clearance, be berthed in the fore part of the ship, in a compartment divided off from the space appropriated to the other passengers by a substantial and well-secured bulkhead, or in separate rooms, if the ship be divided into compartments, and fitted with enclosed berths: Not more than two passengers, unless members of the same family, shall be placed in the same berth: Nor in any case shall persons of different sexes above the age of fourteen, unless husband and wife, be placed in the same berth.

As to numbers and sexes in one berth.

Berths not to be removed till passengers landed.

XX. No berths in a "passenger ship" occupied by passengers during the voyage shall be taken down until forty-eight hours after the arrival of such ship at the port of final discharge, unless all the passengers shall have voluntarily quitted the ship before the expiration of that time.

A space in every ship to be set apart for an hospital.

XXI. In every "passenger ship" a space shall be properly divided off to the satisfaction of the emigration officer at the port of clearance, and set apart for an hospital, not less, in ships carrying as many as one hundred statute adults, than fifty-six clear superficial feet, with four bed-berths erected therein, and properly suppled with bedding, nor less, in vessels carrying three hundred or more statute adults, than one hundred and twenty clear superficial feet, with at least eight bed-berths properly supplied as aforesaid.

As to fitting up of privies.

XXII. No "passenger ship" shall clear out or proceed to sea unless fitted, to the satisfaction of the emigration officer at the port of clearance, with at least two privies, and with two additional privies for every one hundred passengers on board, which shall be maintained in a serviceable condition throughout the voyage; provided that such privies shall be placed in equal numbers on each side of the ship, and need not in any case exceed twelve in number.

Directions as to light and ventilation.

XXIII. No "passenger ship" having on board as many as one hundred statute adults shall clear out or proceed to sea without having on board an adequate and proper ventilating apparatus, to be approved by the emigration officer at the port of clearance, and fitted to his satisfaction; and in every "passenger ship" the passengers, whatever be their number, shall at all times during the voyage (weather permitting) have free access to and from the between decks by the whole of each hatchway situate over the space appropriated to the use of such passengers: If, however, the main hatchway be not one of the hatchways appropriated to the use of the passengers, or if the natural supply of light and air through the same be in any manner unduly impeded, the emigration officer at the port of clearance may direct such other provision to be made for affording light and air to the between decks as the circumstances of the case may, in his judgment, appear to require; and in case of non-compliance with any such directions, or in case such ship shall be cleared out or proceed to sea without such ventilating apparatus, the owner, charterer, or master of such ship shall be liable, on such conviction as hereinafter is mentioned, to a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds nor less than twenty pounds sterling.

Passenger ships shall carry boats.

XXIV. EVERY "passenger ship" shall carry a number of boats according to the following scale; (that is to say,)

Two boats for every ship of one hundred tons and upwards:

Three boats for every ship of two hundred tons and upwards, if the number of statute adults on board shall exceed fifty:

Four boats for every ship of five hundred tons and upwards, if the number of statute adults shall exceed two hundred:

Five boats for every ship of eight hundred tons and upwards, if the number of statute adults shall exceed three hundred:

Six boats for every ship of twelve hundred tons and upwards, if the number of statute adults shall exceed five hundred and fifty:

One boat to be a life-boat.

One of such boats shall in all cases be a long boat, and one shall be a properly fitted life boat, which shall be kept properly suspended at the quarter or stern of the ship; and each of such boats shall be of a suitable size, to be approved by the emigration officer at the port of clearance, and shall be seaworthy, and properly supplied with all requisites, and kept clear at all times for immediate use at sea: There shall likewise be on board each "passenger ship" two properly fitted life buoys, kept ready at all times for immediate use, and some adequate means, to be approved by the emigration officer at the port of clearance, of making signals by night; also a fire engine, in proper working order, or other apparatus for extinguishing fire to be approved by such officer; provided that "passenger ships" which shall comply with the requirements of this Act as regards boats shall be exempted from the requirements respecting boats contained in the "Steam Navigation Act, 1851."

Life buoys, means for making night signals, and fire engines to be provided.

Passenger ship to be properly manned.

XXV. EVERY "passenger ship" shall be manned with an efficient crew for her intended voyage, to the satisfaction of the officer from whom a clearance of such ship may be demanded.

Certain articles prohibited as cargo and ballast.

XXVI. No "passenger ship" shall clear out or proceed to sea if there shall be on board as cargo any horses, cattle, gunpowder, vitriol, lucifer matches, guano, green hides, or any other article, whether as cargo or ballast, which by reason of its nature or quantity shall be deemed by the emigration officer at the port of clearance likely to endanger the health or lives of the passengers, or the safety of the ship: No part of the cargo, or of the provisions, water, or stores, whether for the use of the passengers or of the crew, shall be carried on the upper deck, or on the "passenger decks," unless in the opinion of such emigration officer it shall be so placed as not to impede light or ventilation, nor interfere with the comfort of the passengers; nor Cargo and stores not be carried on deck, except in certain cases and under certain conditions.

Description and ownership of British ships.

Description and ownership of British ships.

Description and Ownership of British Ships.

18. No ship shall be deemed to be a British ship unless she belongs wholly to owners of the following description; that is to say,

(1) Natural-born British subjects:

Provided that no natural-born subject who has taken the oath of allegiance to any foreign sovereign or state shall be entitled to be such owner as aforesaid, unless he has subsequently to taking such last-mentioned oath taken the oath of allegiance to her Majesty, and is and continues to be during the whole period of his so being an owner resident in some place within her Majesty's dominions, or, if not so resident, member of a British factory, or partner in a house actually carrying on business in the United Kingdom, or in some other place within her Majesty's dominions:

(2) Persons made denizens by letters of denization, or naturalized by or pursuant to any Act of the imperial legislature, or by or pursuant to any Act or ordinance of the proper legislative authority in any British possession:

Provided that such persons are and continue to be during the whole period of their so being owners resident in some place within her Majesty's dominions, or, if not so resident, members of a British factory, or partners in a house actually carrying on business in the United Kingdom, or in some other place within her Majesty's dominions, and have taken the oath of allegiance to her Majesty subsequently to the period of their being so made denizens or naturalized:

(3) Bodies corporate established under, subject to the laws of, and having their principal place of business in, the United Kingdom or some British possession.

British ships, with certain exceptions, must be registered.

19. Every British ship must be registered in manner herein-after mentioned, except,

(1) Ships duly registered before this Act comes into operation:

Description and ownership of British ships.

(2) Ships not exceeding fifteen tons burden employed solely in navigation on the rivers or coasts of the United Kingdom, or on the rivers or coasts of some British possession within which the managing owners of such ships are resident:

(3) Ships not exceeding thirty tons burden, and not having a whole or fixed deck, and employed solely in fishing or trading coastwise on the shores of Newfoundland or parts adjacent thereto, or in the gulf of St. Lawrence, or on such portion of the coasts of Canada, Nova Scotia, or New Brunswick as lie bordering on such gulf:

And no ship hereby required to be registered shall, unless registered, be recognized as a British ship; and no officer of Customs shall grant a clearance or transire to any ship hereby required to be registered for the purpose of enabling her to proceed to sea as a British ship, unless the master of such ship, upon being required so to do, produces to him such certificate of registry as is herein-after mentioned; and if such ship attempts to proceed to sea as a British ship without a clearance or transire, such officer may detain such ship until such certificate is produced to him.

Measurement of Tonnage.

Measurement of Tonnage.

Tonnage deck; feet; decimals.

20. THROUGHOUT the following rules the tonnage deck shall be taken to be the upper deck in ships which have less than three decks, and to be the second deck from below in all other ships; and in carrying such rules into effect all measurements shall be taken in feet and fractions of feet, and all fractions of feet shall be expressed in decimals.

RULE I.

For ships to be registered and other ships of which the hold is clear.

21. THE tonnage of every ship to be registered, with the exceptions mentioned in the next section, shall previously to her being registered be ascertained by the following rule, herein-after called Rule I.; and the tonnage of every ship to which such rule can be applied, whether she is about to be registered or not, shall be ascertained by the same rule:

Lengths.

(1) Measure the length of the ship in a straight line along the upper side of the tonnage deck, from the inside of the inner plank (average thickness) at the side of the stem to the inside of the midship stern timber or plank there, as the case may be (average thickness,) deducting from this length what is due to the rake of the bow in the thickness of the deck, and what is due to the rake of the stern timber in the thickness of the deck, and also what is due to the rake of the stern timber in one third of the round of the beam; divide the length so taken into the number of equal parts required by the following table, according to the class in such table to which the ship belongs:

Measurement of Tonnage.

TABLE.

Class 1. Ships of which the tonnage deck is according to the above measurement 50 feet long or under, into 4 equal parts :

„ 2. Ships of which the tonnage deck is according to the above measurement above 50 feet long and not exceeding 120, into 6 equal parts :

„ 3. Ships of which the tonnage deck is according to the above measurement above 120 feet long and not exceeding 180, into 8 equal parts :

„ 4. Ships of which the tonnage deck is according to the above measurement above 180 feet long and not exceeding 225, into 10 equal parts :

„ 5. Ships of which the tonnage deck is according to the above measurement above 225 feet long, into 12 equal parts.

Transverse areas.

(2) Then, the hold being first sufficiently cleared to admit of the required depths and breadths being properly taken, find the transverse area of such ship at each point of division of the length, as follows :— Measure the depth at each point of division, from a point at a distance of one third of the round of the beam below such deck, or, in case of a break, below a line stretched in continuation thereof, to the upper side of the floor timber at the inside of the limber strake, after deducting the average thickness of the ceiling which is between the bilge planks and limber strake; then, if the depth at the midship division of the length do not exceed sixteen feet, divide each depth into four equal parts; then measure the inside horizontal breadth at each of the three points of division, and also at the upper and lower points of the depth, extending each measurement to the average thickness of that part of the ceiling which is between the points of measurement; number these breadths from above (i. e. numbering the upper breadth one, and so on down to the lowest breadth); multiply the second and fourth by four, and the third by two; add these products together, and to the sum add the first breadth and the fifth; multiply the quantity thus obtained by one third of the common interval between the breadths, and the product shall be deemed the transverse area; but if the midship depth exceed sixteen feet, divide each depth into six equal parts instead of four, and measure as before directed the horizontal breadths at the five points of division, and also at the upper and lower points of the depth; number them from above as before;

multiply the second, fourth, and sixth by four, and the third and fifth by two; add these products together, and to the sum add the first breadth and the seventh; multiply the quantity thus obtained by one third of the common interval between the breadths, and the product shall be deemed the transverse area. Measurement of Tonnage.

(3) Having thus ascertained the transverse area at each point of division of the length of the ship as required by the above table, proceed to ascertain the register tonnage of the ship in the following manner: Number the areas successively 1, 2, 3, &c., No. 1 being at the extreme limit of the length at the bow, and the last No. at the extreme limit of the length at the stern; then, whether the length be divided according to the table into four or twelve parts, as in classes 1 and 5, or any intermediate number, as in classes 2, 3, and 4, multiply the second and every even numbered area by four, and the third and every odd numbered area (except the first and last) by two; add these products together, and to the sum add the first and last, if they yield anything; multiply the quantity thus obtained by one third of the common interval between the areas, and the product will be the cubical contents of the space under the tonnage deck; divide this product by one hundred, and the quotient, being the tonnage under the tonnage deck, shall be deemed to be the register tonnage of the ship, subject to the additions and deductions herein-after mentioned. Computation from areas.

(4) If there be a break, a poop, or any other permanent closed-in space on the upper deck, available for cargo or stores, or for the berthing or accommodation of passengers or crew, the tonnage of such space shall be ascertained as follows: Measure the internal mean length of such space in feet, and divide it into two equal parts; measure at the middle of its height three inside breadths, namely, one at each end and the other at the middle of the length; then to the sum of the end breadths add four times the middle breadth, and multiply the whole sum by one third of the common interval between the breadths; the product will give the mean horizontal area of such space; then measure the mean height, and multiply by it the mean horizontal area; divide the product by one hundred, and the quotient shall be deemed to be the tonnage of such space, and shall be added to the tonnage under the tonnage deck, ascertained as aforesaid, subject to the following provisoes; first, that nothing shall be added for a closed-in space solely appropriated to the berthing of the crew, unless such space exceeds one twentieth Poop and any other closed-in space.

of the remaining tonnage of the ship, and in case of such excess the excess only shall be added; and, secondly, that nothing shall be added in respect of any building erected for the shelter of deck passengers, and approved by the Board of Trade.

In case of two or more decks.

(5) If the ship has a third deck, commonly called a spar deck, the tonnage of the space between it and the tonnage deck shall be ascertained as follows: Measure in feet the inside length of the space at the middle of its height, from the plank at the side of the stem to the lining on the timbers at the stern, and divide the length into the same number of equal parts into which the length of the tonnage deck is divided as above directed; measure (also at the middle of its height) the inside breadth of the space at each of the points of division, also the breadth of the stem and the breadth at the stern; number them successively 1, 2, 3, &c., commencing at the stem; multiply the second and all the other even numbered breadths by four, and the third and all the other odd numbered breadths (except the first and last) by two; to the sum of these products add the first and last breadths; multiply the whole sum by one third of the common interval between the breadths, and the result will give in superficial feet the mean horizontal area of such space; measure the mean height of such space, and multiply by it the mean horizontal area, and the product will be the cubical contents of the space; divide this product by one hundred, and the quotient shall be deemed to be the tonnage of such space, and shall be added to the other tonnage of the ship ascertained as aforesaid; and if the ship has more than three decks, the tonnage of each space between decks above the tonnage deck shall be severally ascertained in manner above described, and shall be added to the tonnage of the ship ascertained as aforesaid.

RULE II.

For ships not requiring registry with cargo on board.

22. SHIPS which, requiring to be measured for any purpose other than registry, have cargo on board, and ships which, requiring to be measured for the purpose of registry, cannot be measured by the rule above given, shall be measured by the following rule, herein-after called Rule II:

Length.

(1) Measure the length on the upper deck, from the outside of the outer plank at the stem to the aftside of the stern post, deducting therefrom the distance between the aftside of the stern post and the rabbet of the stern post at the point where the counter plank crosses it;

Breadth.

of the upper deck at the ship's sides, girt the ship at the greatest breadth, in a direction perpendicular to the keel, from the height so marked on the outside of the ship on the one side to the height so marked on the other side, by passing a chain under the keel; to half the girth thus taken add half the main breadth; square the sum; multiply the result by the length of the ship taken as aforesaid; then multiply this product by the factor ·0018 (eighteen ten-thousandths) in the case of ships built of wood, and by ·0021 (twenty-one ten-thousandths) in the case of ships built of iron, and the product shall be deemed the register tonnage of the ship, subject to the additions and deductions herein-after mentioned.

Girting of the ship.

(2.) If there be a break, a poop, or other closed-in space on the upper deck, the tonnage of such space shall be ascertained by multiplying together the mean length, breadth, and depth of such space, and dividing the product by 100, and the quotient so obtained shall be deemed to be the tonnage of such space, and shall, subject to the deduction for a closed-in space appropriated to the crew, as mentioned in Rule I, be added to the tonnage of the ship ascertained as aforesaid.

Poop and other closed-in spaces on upper deck.

RULE III.

23. IN every ship propelled by steam or other power requiring engine room, an allowance shall be made for the space occupied by the propelling power, and the amount so allowed shall be deducted from the gross tonnage of the ship ascertained as aforesaid, and the remainder shall be deemed to be the register tonnage of such ship; and such deduction shall be estimated as follows; (that is to say,)

Allowance for engine room in steamers.

(a.) As regards ships propelled by paddle wheels in which the tonnage of the space solely occupied by and necessary for the proper working of the boilers and machinery is above twenty per cent. and under thirty per cent. of the gross tonnage of the ship, such deduction shall be thirty-seven one-hundredths of such gross tonnage; and in ships propelled by screws in which the tonnage of such space is above thirteen per cent. and under twenty per cent. of such gross tonnage, such deduction shall be thirty-two one-hundredths of such gross tonnage:

To be rateable in ordinary steamers.

(b.) As regards all other ships, the deduction shall, if the Commissioners of Customs and the owner both agree thereto, be estimated in the same manner; but either they or he may in their or his discretion require the space to be measured and the deduction estimated accordingly; and whenever such measurement is so required, the deduction shall consist of the tonnage of the space actually occupied by or required to be inclosed for the proper working of the boilers and machinery, with the addition, in the case of ships propelled by paddle wheels, of one half, and, in the case of ships propelled by screws, of three fourths, of the tonnage of such space; and the measurement and use of such space shall be governed by the following rules; (that is to say,)

Mode of measurement.

(1) Measure the mean depth of the space from its crown to the ceiling at the limber strake; measure also three, or, if necessary, more than three breadths of the space at the middle of its depth, taking one of such measurements at each end, and another at the middle of the length; take the mean of such breadths; measure also the mean length of the space between the foremost and aftermost bulkheads or limits of its length, excluding such parts, if any, as are not actually occupied by or required for the proper working of the machinery; multiply together these three dimensions of length, breadth, and depth, and the product will be the cubical contents of the space below the crown; then find the cubical contents of the space or spaces, if any, above the crown aforesaid which are framed in for the machinery, or for the admission of light and air, by multiplying together the length, depth, and breadth thereof; add such contents to the cubical contents of the space below the crown; divide the sum by 100; and the result shall be deemed to be the tonnage of the said space:

In case of separate compartments.

(2) If in any ship in which the space aforesaid is to be measured the engines and boilers are fitted in separate compartments, the contents of each shall be measured severally in like manner, according to the above rules, and the sum of their several results shall be deemed to be the tonnage of the said space:

Shaft trunk of screw steamer.

(3) In the case of screw steamers in which the space aforesaid is to be measured, the contents of the shaft trunk shall be added to and deemed to form part of such space, and shall be ascertained by multiplying together the mean length, breadth and depth of the trunk, and dividing the product by 100:

Alteration of engine room.

(4) If in any ship in which the space aforesaid is to be measured any alteration be made in the length or capacity of such space, or if any cabins be fitted in such space, such ship shall be deemed to be a ship not registered until remeasurement:

Penalty for carrying goods in such space.

(5) If in any ship in which the space aforesaid is to be measured any goods or stores are stowed or carried in such space, the master and owner shall each be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred pounds.

Measurement of Tonnage.

RULE IV.

Open ships how measured.

24. IN ascertaining the tonnage of open ships the upper edge of the upper strake is to form the boundary line of measurement, and the depths shall be taken from an athwartship line extended from upper edge to upper edge of the said strake at each division of the length.

* * * * * * * * *

Tonnage when once ascertained to be ever after deemed the tonnage.

26. WHENEVER the tonnage of any ship has been ascertained and registered in accordance with the provisions of this Act, the same shall thenceforth be deemed to be the tonnage of such ship, and be repeated in every subsequent registry thereof, unless any alteration is made in the form or capacity of such ship, or unless it is discovered that the tonnage of such ship has been erroneously computed; and in either of such cases such ship shall be remeasured, and her tonnage determined and registered according to the rules herein-before contained in that behalf.

Remeasurement of ships already registered may be made, but not to be compulsory.

27. THE rules for the measurement of tonnage herein contained shall not make it necessary to alter the present registered tonnage of any British ship registered before this Act comes into operation; but if the owner of any such ship desires to have the same remeasured according to such rules, he may apply to the Commissioners of Customs for the purpose, and such commissioners shall thereupon, and on payment of such reasonable charge for the expenses of remeasurement, not exceeding the sum of seven shillings and sixpence for each transverse section, as they may authorize, direct such remeasurement to be made, and such ship shall thereupon be remeasured according to such rules as aforesaid, or according to such of them as may be applicable; and the number denoting the register tonnage shall be altered accordingly.

Power to remeasure engine rooms improperly extended.

28. IF it appears to the Commissioners of Customs that in any steam ship measured before this Act comes into operation store rooms or coal bunkers have been introduced into or thrown across the engine room, so that the deduction from the tonnage on account of the engine room is larger than it ought to be, the said commissioners may, if they think fit, direct such engine room to be remeasured according to the rules in force before this Act comes into operation, excluding the space occupied by such store rooms or coal bunkers, or may, if the owners so desire, cause the ship to be remeasured according to the rules herein-before contained, and subject to the conditions contained in the last preceding section; and after remeasurement the said commissioners shall cause the ship to be registered anew, or the registry thereof to be altered, as the case may require.

Officers may be appointed and regulations made for

82. UPON proof at any time to the satisfaction of the Commissioners of Customs that any certificate of mortgage or sale is lost or so obliterated as to be useless, and that the powers thereby given have never been exercised, or if they have been exercised, then upon proof of the several matters and things that have been done thereunder, it shall be lawful for the registrar, with the sanction of the said commissioners, as circumstances may require, either to issue a new certificate, or to direct such entries to be made in the register book, or such other matter or thing to be done, as might have been made or done if no such loss or obliteration had taken place.

Revocation of certificates of mortgage and sale.

83. THE registered owner for the time being of any ship or share therein in respect of which a certificate of mortgage or sale has been granted, specifying the place or places where the power thereby given is to be exercised, may, by an instrument under his hand made in the form O. in the schedule hereto, or as near thereto as circumstances permit, authorize the registrar by whom such certificate was granted to give notice to the registrar or consular officer, registrars or consular officers, at such place or places, that such certificate is revoked; and notice shall be given accordingly; and all registrars or consular officers receiving such notice shall record the same, and shall exhibit the same to all persons who may apply to them for the purpose of effecting or obtaining a mortgage or transfer under the said certificate of mortgage or sale; and after such notice has been so recorded the said certificate shall, so far as concerns any mortgage or sale to be thereafter made at such place, be deemed to be revoked and of no effect; and every registrar or consular officer recording any such notice shall thereupon state to the registrar by whom the certificate was granted whether any previous exercise of the power to which such certificate refers has taken place.

On alteration registry anew may be required.

85. WHEN the registrar to whom application is made in respect of any such alteration as aforesaid is the registrar of the port of registry, he may, if he thinks fit, instead of registering such alteration, require such ship to be registered anew in manner herein-before directed on the first registry of a ship; and if he is not such registrar as lastly herein-before mentioned, he may nevertheless require such ship to be registered anew, but he shall in such last-mentioned case grant a provisional certificate or make a provisional indorsement of the alteration made in manner herein-before directed in cases where no registry anew is required, taking care to add to such certificate or indorsement a statement that the same is made provisionally, and to insert in his report to the registrar of the port of registry of the ship a like statement.

Grant of provisional certificate in respect of alteration.

86. EVERY such provisional certificate, or certificate provisionally indorsed, shall within ten days after the first subsequent arrival of the ship at her port of discharge in the United Kingdom, if registered in the United Kingdom, or, if registered elsewhere, at her port of discharge in the British possession within which her port of registry is situate, be delivered up to the registrar thereof, who shall thereupon cause such ship to be registered anew, in the same manner in all respects as herein-before required on the first registry of any ship.

If upon any change of ownership in any ship the owner or owners desire to have such ship registered anew, although such registry anew is not required by this Act, it shall be lawful for the registrar of the port at which such ship is already registered, on the delivery up to him of the existing certificate of registry, and on the other requisites to registry, or such of them as the registrar thinks material, being duly complied with, to make such registry anew, and grant a certificate thereof.

Registry may be transferred from port to port.

89. The registry of any ship may be transferred from one port to another upon the application of all parties appearing on the register to be interested in such ship, whether as owners or mortgagees, such application to be expressed by a declaration in writing, made and subscribed, if the party so required to make and subscribe the same resides at or within five miles of the custom house of the port from which such ship is to be transferred, in the presence of the registrar of such port, but if beyond that distance, in the presence of any registrar, or of any justice of the peace.

Manner of transfer of registry.

90. Upon such application being made as is herein-before mentioned, and upon the delivery to him of the certificate of registry, the registrar of the port at which such ship is already registered shall transmit to the registrar of the port at which such ship is intended to be registered notice of such application having been made to him, together with a true copy of all particulars relating to such ship, and the names of all the parties appearing by his book to be interested as owners or mortgagees in such ship; and such last-mentioned registrar shall upon the receipt of such notice enter all such particulars and names in his book of registry, and grant a fresh certificate of registry, and thenceforth such ship shall be considered as registered at and belonging to such last-mentioned port, and the name of such last-mentioned port shall be substituted on the stern of such ship in lieu of the name of the port previously appearing thereon.

Transfer of registry not to affect rights of owners.

91. The transfer of the registry of any ship in manner aforesaid shall not in any way affect the rights of the several persons interested either as owners or mortgagees in such ship, but such rights shall in all respects be maintained and continue in the same manner as if no such transfer had been effected.

(4) If before such demand is made any claim to the wages and effects of the deceased made by any person interested therein as his widow or child, or under a will, or under the statutes for the distribution of the effects of intestates, or under any other statute, or at common law, has been allowed, the Board of Trade shall give notice to the creditor of the allowance of such person's claim, and the creditor shall thereupon have the same rights and remedies against such person as if he or she had received the said wages and effects as the legal personal representative of the deceased:

(5) If no claim by any such person has been allowed, the Board of Trade shall proceed to investigate the creditor's account, and may for that purpose require him to prove the same, and to produce all books, accounts, vouchers, and papers relating thereto; and if by such means the creditor duly satisfies the Board of Trade of the justice of the demand, either in the whole or in part, the same shall be allowed and paid accordingly, so far as the assets in the hands of the Board of Trade will extend for that purpose, and such payment shall discharge the Board of Trade from all further liability in respect of the money so paid; but if such Board is not so satisfied, or if such books, accounts, vouchers, or papers as aforesaid are not produced, and no sufficient reason is assigned for not producing them, the demand shall be disallowed:

Distressed seamen found abroad may be relieved and sent home at the public expense.

211. THE Governors, consular officers, and other officers of her Majesty in foreign countries shall, and in places where there are no such Governors or officers any two resident British merchants may, provide for the subsistence of all seamen or apprentices, being subjects of her Majesty, who have been shipwrecked, discharged, or left behind at any place abroad, whether from any ship employed in the Merchant Service or from any of her Majesty's ships, or who have been engaged by any person acting either as principal or agent to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power or to the subject of any foreign state, and who are in distress in any place abroad, until such time as they are able to provide them with a passage home, and for that purpose shall cause such seamen or apprentices to be put on board some ship belonging to any subject of her Majesty bound to any port of the United Kingdom, or to the British possession to which they belong, (as the case requires,) which is in want of men to make up its complement, and in default of any such ship shall provide them with a passage home as soon as possible in some ship belonging to a subject of her Majesty so bound as aforesaid, and shall indorse on the agreement of any ship on board of which any seaman or apprentice is so taken or sent the name of every person so sent on board thereof, with such particulars concerning the case as the Board of Trade requires, and shall be allowed for the subsistence of any such seaman or apprentice such sum per diem as the Board of Trade from time to time appoints; and the amount due in respect of such allowance shall be paid out of any monies applicable to the relief of distressed British seamen, and granted by Parliament for the purpose, on the production of the bills of the disbursements, with the proper vouchers.

But if the sum claimed exceeds two hundred pounds,

Such dispute may, with the consent of the parties, be referred to the arbitration of such justices as aforesaid, but if they do not consent, shall in England be decided by the High Court of Admiralty of England, in Ireland by the High Court of Admiralty of Ireland, and in Scotland by the Court of Session; subject to this proviso, that if the claimants in such dispute do not recover in such Court of Admiralty or Court of Session a greater sum than two hundred pounds, they shall not, unless the court certifies that the case is a fit one to be tried in a superior court, recover any costs, charges, or expenses incurred by them in the prosecution of their claim:

And every dispute with respect to salvage may be heard and adjudicated upon on the application either of the salvor or of the owner of the property salved, or of their respective agents.

Manner in which justices may decide disputes.

461. WHENEVER in pursuance of this Act any dispute as to salvage is referred to the arbitration of two justices, they may either themselves determine the same, with power to call to their assistance any person conversant with maritime affairs as assessor, or they may, if a difference of opinion arises between them, or without such difference, if they think fit, appoint some person conversant with maritime affairs as umpire to decide the point in dispute; and such justices or their umpire shall make an award as to the amount of salvage payable within the following times, that is to say, the said justices within forty-eight hours after such dispute has been referred to them, and the said umpire within forty-eight hours after his appointment, with power nevertheless for such justices or umpire by writing under their or his hands or hand to extend the time within which they and he are hereby respectively directed to make their or his award.

THERE shall be paid to every assessor and umpire who may be so appointed as aforesaid in respect of his services such sum not exceeding five pounds as the Board of Trade may from time to time direct; and all the costs of such arbitration, including any such payments as aforesaid, shall be paid by the parties to the dispute, in such manner and in such shares and proportions as the said justices or as the said umpire may direct by their or his award.

Justices may call for documents, and administer oaths.

463. THE said justices or their umpire may call for the production of any documents in the possession or power of either party which they or he may think necessary for determining the question in dispute, and may examine the parties or their witnesses on oath, and administer the oaths necessary for that purpose.

Appeal to Courts of Admiralty.

464. IF any person is aggrieved by the award made by such justices or such umpire as aforesaid, he may in England appeal to the High Court of Admiralty of England, in Ireland to the High Court of Admiralty of Ireland, and in Scotland to the Court of Session; but no such appeal shall be allowed unless the sum in dispute exceeds fifty pounds, nor unless within ten days after the date of the award the appellant gives notice to the justices to whom the matter was referred of his intention to appeal, nor unless the appellant proceeds to take out a monition, or to take such other proceeding as according to the practice of the court of appeal is necessary for the institution of an appeal, within twenty days from the date of the award.

Justices to transmit copy of proceedings and certificate of value to court of appeal.

465. WHENEVER any appeal is made in manner herein-before provided, the justices shall transmit to the proper officer of the court of appeal a copy on unstamped paper, certified under their hands to be a true copy, of the proceedings had before such justices or their umpire, if any, and of the award so made by them or him, accompanied with their or his certificate in writing of the gross value of the article respecting which salvage is claimed; and such copy and certificate shall be admitted in the court of appeal as evidence in the cause.

Payment of salvage, to whom to be made in case of dispute as to apportionment.

466. Apportionment of salvage.

467. UPON the receipt of any such amount as aforesaid the receiver shall with all convenient speed proceed to distribute the same among the several persons entitled thereto, upon such evidence and in such shares and proportions as he thinks fit, with power to retain any monies that may appear to him to be payable to any absent parties; but any distribution made in pursuance of this section shall be final and conclusive against the rights of all persons claiming to be entitled to any portion of the monies so distributed.

Manner of enforcing payment of salvage.

468. WHENEVER any salvage is due to any person under this Act, the receiver shall act as follows; (that is to say,)

(1) If the same is due in respect of services rendered in assisting any ship or boat, or in saving the lives of persons belonging to the same, or the cargo or apparel thereof,

He shall detain such wreck until payment is made, or process has been issued in manner aforesaid:

But it shall be lawful for the receiver, if at any time previously to the issue of such process security is given to his satisfaction for the amount of salvage due, to release from his custody any ship, boat, cargo, apparel, or wreck so detained by him as aforesaid; and in cases where the claim for salvage exceeds [illegible] hundred pounds it shall be lawful in England for the High Court of Admiralty of England, in Ireland for the High Court of Admiralty of Ireland, and in Scotland for the Court of Session, to determine any question that may arise concerning the amount of the security to be given or the sufficiency of the sureties; and in all cases where bond or other security is given to the receiver for an amount exceeding two hundred pounds it shall be lawful for the salvor, or for the owner of the property salved, or their respective agents, to institute proceedings in such last-mentioned courts for the purpose of having the questions arising between them adjudicated upon, and the said courts may enforce payment of the said bond or other security, in the same manner as if bail had been given in the said courts.

CHAPTER IV.

An Act to amend the Act for limiting the Time of Service in the Army.

[27th February 1855.]

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the session holden in the tenth and eleventh years of her Majesty, chapter thirty-seven, "for limiting the time of service in the Army," it was enacted, that no person should be enlisted to serve her Majesty, or in the forces of the East India Company, as a soldier, for a longer term than ten years in the infantry or twelve years in the cavalry or artillery, or other ordnance corps, to be reckoned from the day on which the recruit should have been attested, if he should have stated himself to be then of the age of eighteen years, or if not, then from the day on which he would complete the age of eighteen years, to be reckoned according to the age stated in his attestation: And it was thereby also enacted, that any soldier at any time during the last six months of the term of limited service for which he should have been first engaged, or after the completion of such term, might, if approved by his commanding officer or other competent military authority as a fit person to continue in her Majesty's service or in the service of the East India Company as a soldier, be re-engaged to serve for the further term of eleven years in the infantry and twelve years in the cavalry or artillery, or other ordnance corps; and that any soldier who should be ordered on foreign service, and who was within three years of the expiration of his first engagement, should be at liberty, with the approbation of his commanding officer, to re-engage before he embarked for such foreign service for such period as should complete a total service of twenty-one years in the infantry or twenty-four years in the cavalry or artillery: And whereas by an Act passed in the session holden in the twelfth and thirteenth years of her Majesty, chapter seventy-three, "to limit the enlistment in the artillery and other ordnance corps," it was enacted, that during the last six months of the term of limited service for which a soldier should have first engaged to serve in the artillery or other ordnance corps, or after the completion of such term, he might, if approved by his commanding officer or other competent military authority as a fit person to continue in her Majesty's service as a soldier, be re-engaged to serve for the further term of nine years: And whereas by reason of directions contained in schedules to the said first-recited Act, for filling up blanks in the forms of questions to be put to recruits on enlisting, it is apprehended that it may not be lawful to enlist persons to serve as soldiers for lesser terms than the said terms of ten years and twelve years respectively: And whereas it is expedient that her Majesty should be enabled to permit enlistment for such lesser terms, and to authorize soldiers to Power to her Majesty, by order in Council, for three years after passing of Act, to lessen terms for enlistment and re-engagement of soldiers.

1. For three years after the passing of this Act any person may be enlisted to serve her Majesty, or in the forces of the East India Company, as a soldier, for any such term, not exceeding ten years in the infantry or twelve years in the cavalry or artillery, or other ordnance corps (to be reckoned as provided in the said first-mentioned Act), as may be authorized by any order or orders of her Majesty in Council in this behalf; and any soldier may, subject to such approbation as in the said Acts mentioned, re-engage for such term as may by such order or orders in Council be authorized; Provided the term for which he is so engaged, with the term of his service under his first enlistment, do not exceed the period of twenty-one years in the infantry or artillery, or other ordnance corps, or twenty-four years in the cavalry; and the forms of questions on enlistment in schedule A. to the said first-mentioned Act, and the form of declaration in schedule B. to such Act, may, when the occasion requires, be filled up with such term or number of years as may be authorized by such order or orders, instead of the term or number of years mentioned in the directions contained in such schedules.

Recited Acts and this Act to be read as one.

2. The said Acts of the tenth and eleventh years and twelfth and thirteenth years of her Majesty and this Act shall be read and construed together as one Act.
